PORK BARREL CHARGE STIRS AID SPONSORS

HOOVER RAPPED FOR OPPOSING RELIEF MEASURE

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 25 (AP)—The possibility of revising the huge $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill to meet President Hoover's wishes almost vanished today as its sponsors shot back hot retorts to the chief executive's charge of "pork-barrel" legislation.

The bill was vigorously defended by Speaker Garner of the house and Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.) as the house and senate conferees began negotiations which President Hoover hopes will result in a rewritten measure.

Wagner rose in the senate to reply to the president and advised the public to reject the criticism of "one who has throughout the depression been wrong, late and futile."

Conference Deadlocked

Speaker Garner, at his daily conference with newspapermen, said:

"We loan the shipping interests many millions of dollars at a very low rate of interest and it's all right. When we try to do something for all the people it's 'pork barrel.' To serve special interests is statesmanship; to serve the people is pork."

The conferees, facing the tremendous task of ironing out differences between the Garner house bill and the Wagner senate measure, made little progress and agreed to resume their work Monday.

Chairman Norbeck of the senate group, however, said it would be virtually impossible to write the bill as the president has asked.

Meanwhile, plans for the adjournment of congress next week hung largely on the outcome of the relief controversy.

A new move to settle the controversy over the national economy bill was made in the senate when Senator McNary, assistant Republican leader, served notice he would ask reconsideration of the vote by which the senate rejected the conference report on the $150,000,000 measure.

Wagner charged that President Hoover, in his attack yesterday on the relief bill, had not been "candid" and was "defying the light and the truth," but he also assailed the president's record on relief.

"Mr. Hoover has been continuously and invariably wrong" on unemployment," he said. "He was wrong when he resisted the effort during times of prosperity to prepare for the possible day of depression.

"He was wrong when he declared that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would contribute to the resumption of employment and the stabilization of prices and that no more direct methods were necessary.

"In view of this record I declare that the public will do well to reject the criticism of one who has throughout the depression been wrong late and futile."

Wagner contended his bill would help balance the budget and said there was no warrant for the president's statement that the money would be spent where it was not needed.

Sarazen Captures U. S. Open Title

In the Headlines From Washington

(By The Associated Press)

Hopes for revising $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill to suit the president dimmed as house and senate sponsors criticize him for his opposition.

Senator McNary (R., Ore.), served notice he would ask reconsideration of the vote by which the senate rejected conference report on economy bill.

Police redoubled vigilance when commander of war veterans seeking bonus payment resigned office.

House agriculture committee reported favorably by 11 to 10 vote emergency farm relief bill to give farmers the world price plus the tariff on crops consumed domestically.

House approval of a $1,000,000 reduction in prohibition enforcement funds made by senate was voted.

MOSES LEAVES BRANCH PRISON

Nahma Man Walks Away From Yard Outside Wall

Marquette, June 25 (Special)—Mose Moses, 49, of Nahma, an Indian trusty at the Michigan branch prison here, was sought by a cordon of prison guards, state police and county authorities tonight after he had walked away from his duties outside the prison walls this morning. He was sentenced from Escanaba in August, 1931, for burglary. He was convicted of breaking into the George Schwartz barber shop at Nahma on May 28, 1931, and stealing barber tools.

Moses left the prison at 8:30 this morning to work on the shrubbery around the prison walls and disappeared from the premises some time in the forenoon. He had eight months of his minimum term left before he would have been eligible for a parole. Moses had only been permitted outside the prison walls for the past four days.

Sheriff Swanson of Delta county has been notified of Moses' escape and has been requested to watch for his possible appearance at his home in Nahma.

The prison description of Moses is as follows: height, 5 feet, 11 inches; weight, 188 pounds; dark complexion, black hair; age, 29; brown eyes, medium large build.

A reward of $50 has been issued for his capture. If seen, notify the county sheriff or Warden James Corgan of Marquette prison.

Moses' escape is the first since May 28, 1931.

Traylor's Name to Be In Nomination At Start Of Call

Chicago, June 25 (AP)—Melvin Traylor, the Chicago banker, will be placed in nomination at the outset of the roll call of the states.

This was decided upon tonight by Frank Scofield, the Texas rancher, and manager of the Traylor campaign, after the Illinois delegation was released by Senator James Hamilton Lewis, its favorite son candidate. Someone from Illinois will place Traylor's name in nomination. The delegate has not as yet been selected for the task.

This step was decided upon after Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago indicated Traylor would get the bulk of the Cook county delegates. The Texas rancher had originally planned to await a hoped for deadlock before placing Traylor's name in nomination.

SHOOTS 66 IN FOURTH ROUND OF GOLF MEET

PERKINS TIED WITH CRUICKSHANK FOR SECOND PLACE

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, N. Y., June 25 (AP)—Gene Sarazen, the king himself, settled his right of succession to the world championship throne of golf today with the greatest finish in all the history of the game.

With a spurt that left the galleries roaring and riotous, the experts and players gasping, Galloping Gene came down the stretch like a man o'war to shoot a record-smashing 66, four under par, on his final round and capture the United States open championship with three full strokes to spare.

Barely two weeks after his triumph in the British open with a record score of 283, Sarazen struck his stride on the final day and furnished an amazing climax to one of the most thrilling free-for-alls the American tournament has known in years.

Won Ten Years Ago

Gene finished the 72 holes with rounds of 74-76-70-66 for a total of 286 that equalled the all-time record set by Charles (Chick) Evans, of Chicago, at Minneapolis in 1916. His final, dazzling round, made under the sort of pressure that has stamped him as the game's greatest finisher, clipped two strokes off the Fresh Meadow course's competitive record and smashed by one stroke the previous tournament record, a 67 by William MacFarlane in 1925.

Just ten years ago Sarazen won his last and only other American open championship with a last round 68 for a total of 288, but the "boy wonder" of 1922, just turned 21, was a tyro by comparison with the masterful shot maker who whipped everything in sight to a frazzle today over the toughest stretch in tournament golf.

Thomas Phillip Perkins, the former British amateur champion, lately turned professional, and Bobby Cruickshank, the transplanted little Scotch veteran, finished exactly three strokes behind Sarazen, with 289 each, despite exhibitions of golf that would have been good enough to have captured nine out of ten national open champions. Now they know how Macdonald Smith felt when he discovered his fine 288 in this year's British open was only good enough for second place, five strokes behind the new king of the realm.

Perkins finished with a 72-hole tally of 76-69-74-70—289. Setting the pace almost all of the final day, shaking off the gallant Argentine, Jose Jurado, as well as others, Perkins made a remarkable finish under pressure for the best performance he has ever given in open competition. He lost his chance to make it closer by dropping strokes on the 16th and 17th holes, but with everything at stake he bagged a beautiful birdie three on the difficult home hole for his 70.

Cruickshank Spurts

"Wee Bobby" Cruickshank, who first attracted attention when he tied Bob Jones for the 1923 open championship subsequently losing the playoff, put on a finish that would have blazed like a lighthouse on rocky shores on any day other than the one Sarazen chose to burn up his old home course. Cruickshank was seven strokes off the pace when the last 36-holes began,

Al Smith Presented With Another Derby

BY VICTOR HACKLER
(Ass'd Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, June 25 (AP)—Democratic candidates and campaign managers found relief from the pre-convention strain today in methods all their own—leading bands, playing golf, swapping stories.

There was a lot of heavy conferring along candidates' row in the Congress hotel, but some of it turned out to be an exchange of the latest jokes. Several of the candidates made the rounds to renew acquaintances and pay respects to their friendly rivals.

Al Smith was presented with a new derby—gold colored and about half the size of the old brown one. Then he went out to play golf. Asked how many strokes handicap he was giving his opponents, he said "I get; never give."

"Alfalfa Bill" Pretending

Governor Ritchie was asked if he, too, was going to take time off to get in a round of golf. He replied that he didn't play golf, didn't take any exercise and hadn't for years.

The Maryland governor in making the round of the headquarters, stopped in to see the chief executive of Oklahoma—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray. Photographers had them pose shaking hands.

"All right," said Murray, "but remember we're only pretending."

"I mean it sincerely," said Ritchie.

Democratic Platform Committee Dominated By Roosevelt Forces

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, June 25 (AP)—A majority of the Democratic platform committee was in agreement tonight on a tentative prohibition plank calling for a decision by the people on the question of repeal, after a stormy session punctuated by cheers and boos for orators pleading the wet and dry causes.

Tentative Plan

Roosevelt leaders, dominating the sub-committee of nine appointed to draft the platform, were confident of beating down all attempts to commit the party to repeal. The tentative plank read as follows:

"We favor immediate submission to state conventions of an amendment repealing the eighteenth amendment submitted to the people in such a manner as to assure a choice between the present system and the return to the states of the power and responsibilities to prohibit liquors by such means as will promote temperance, prevent the return of the saloon and sale to minors, and protect the dry states in the enforcement of their laws and permit the taxing of liquor by federal and state governments."

A tentative tariff plank also was drafted, calling for a competitive tariff for revenue purposes, a fact finding commission independent of the executive branch of the government and reciprocal tariff agreements with other nations.

Boos drowned out scattered applause from the galleries when Bishop James Cannon, Jr., an anti-Smith leader in 1928, declared for a dry plank. He said the southern states which put "moral principle above party loyalty" in bolting Smith four years ago would do so again this year if confronted by a "similar issue."

The southern churchman was undaunted. He insisted that "prohibition shall not be made a partisan political issue or the subject of a plank in the Democratic platform."

Senator Glass of Virginia, long a foe of the prohibition leader, walked from the committee room as the bishop spoke.

Argues for Wets

Micheal Igoe of Illinois and J. R. Pfiffner, the Wisconsin member of the resolutions committee, presented planks fovaring committing the party to repeal and legislation, meanwhile to permit the sale of beer.

MICHIGAN BLOC FOR ROOSEVELT

But Votes Will Swing to Baker After Early Balloting

BY G. T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, June 25 (AP)—Michigan Democrats may be in the front of a stampede to a compromise candidate if a blockade develops in the Democratic national convention next week, it appeared tonight.

While the delegation was pledged by its state convention to vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidential nomination the instruction was not so binding it must be followed blindly through thick and thin. It ordered the delegates to vote for Roosevelt "as long as party welfare dictates."

It is up to the delegation to determine when the party's welfare will be advanced by deserting the Roosevelt standard. And it is no secret that many of the delegates —possibly a majority—now would like to see someone else head the Democratic ticket.

Many Favor Baker

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, seemed to be the candidate most likely to receive Michigan's 38 votes if it becomes necessary to abandon Roosevelt. While there were staunch Smith and Ritchie men and women in the group they appeared to be far outnumbered by those favoring Baker as second choice.

Such factors in the councils of Michigan Democrats as Edmund C. Shields, Lansing; Mayor Peter

FARM AID PLAN GETS APPROVAL

Rainey's Program Goes To Rules Committee For Study

Washington, June 25 (AP)—An emergency farm relief plan designed to boost agriculture's income for one year was approved today by the house agriculture committee.

It was sponsored by Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, and was ordered reported to the house by an 11 to 10 committee vote that split party lines.

Despite its authorship by the majority leader, the close committee vote was interpreted as holding little hope for further advancement in the house this session.

A rule first would have to be obtained for its consideration. For two weeks the powerful rules committee has declined to act on two other relief bills approved earlier this session by the same agriculture committee.

The Rainey bill, prepared by farm organization leaders, is intended to give farmers the world price plus the tariff on that portion of their produce consumed domestically.

Originally intended to apply only to wheat, cotton and hogs, it was amended by the committee to include all other staple farm commodities including corn, tobacco, livestock and dairy products.

The bill directs the secretary of

KING OF SIAM BACKS CHANGE

Prajadhipok Will Remain As Head of Constitutional Monarchy

Bangkok, Siam, June 26 (Sunday) (AP)—King Prajadhipok cordially accepted today the end of his absolute power and the establishment of a constitutional monarchy by leaders of the peoples party.

In a telegram from Huahin, on his way to the capital, he said he was in entire agreement with the requirements of the new form of government set up by an almost bloodless revolt of the army and navy Friday aimed at ridding the country of what were described as 'certain grafting and extravagant princes.'

The king, who was on a royal holiday with his consort when his absolute monarchy was overturned, said he had recognized the desirability of a governmental change for some time.

(The revolution was attributed by the Siamese legation at Paris to the economic crisis, which in Siam was largely caused by inability of the peasants to sell rice and rubber. The salaries of government employees were cut six months ago, causing further dissatisfaction.)

Capital Peaceful

King Prajadhipok was willing.

Couple Arrested At Detroit Will Go Back To Soo

Detroit, June 25 (AP)—Guy Greco, 19, and his 16-year-old bride, Frances Thompson Greco, whose honeymoon was interrupted here by federal immigration authorities 24 hours after it began, were released today preparatory to returning to their homes in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

They were found at the home of Greco's sister, after the youth had wired home to ask for money. Investigation, federal agents said, showed that they crossed over to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and were married Thursday, giving incorrect ages, and violating the immigration laws by telling immigration officers they were entering the United States only for a day's visit.

Officers declared their marriage was invalid because the girl had sworn she was 19, and Greco had asserted he was 21.

After holding them in the county jail last night, federal officers released them in custody of the bride's brother here. They will be permitted to return voluntarily to Canada, where, if their parents are willing they intend to be married again.

CONVENTION IN CHICAGO WILL BEGIN MONDAY

ROOSEVELT FORCES NOW CLAIM 700 DELEGATES

BY EDWARD J. DUFFY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, June 25 (AP)—An offensive for a Roosevelt stampede in next week's Democratic convention started from the headquarters of the New York governor tonight as Lewis of Illinois withdrew and Tammany wavered, but the opposition ranks tightened quickly and fought desperately on.

Claiming at least 25 votes of the 58 Illinois delegates released by Senator Lewis, the Roosevelt managers lifted their claimed column above 700 votes and nibbled toward the 770 needed to nominate under the old two-thirds rule.

Simultaneously, word leaked out that 50 or more New York votes which Tammany says it controls would very likely go to whatever candidate comes within real striking distance of the nomination goal. One Tammany leader said "Of course we won't stand out against the nomination of the candidate who needs only our votes to win."

> MURRAY STAYS IN
> Chicago, June 25 (AP)—Governor William H. Murray, "Alfalfa Bill," said tonight he was going to stay in the race for the presidential nomination "until someone bobs up who I can support."
> The Oklahoma governor said he had "no intention of quitting now" and apped: "I am going to wait and see how things turn out."

Nomination Thursday

But the immediate effect of all of this was to spur to new activity an opposition incensed over the Roosevelt move to set aside the two-thirds tradition entirely, and adopt a rule permitting nomination by simple majority.

Not only were many of the Roosevelt figures disputed, including the 25 claimed in Illinois, but the circle of rival candidates expressed doubt whether the present Roosevelt strength can be held in line until the nominations are reached, probably on Thursday.

Meanwhile, the platform committee set about polishing a plank submitted by a majority group which favors submission of a prohibition repeal amendment to state convention. In concise form, it would give the electorate a chance to choose between nation prohibition and state liquor control.

After the opening preliminaries Monday, the Roosevelt candidacy must run the gauntlet of two resentment-stirring battles on Tuesday. One is over the convention chairmanship. The other will decide whether the party is to keep the precedent of a century, and adopt the two-thirds nominating rule, or cast it aside as the Roosevelt men want to do.

So bitter is the feeling over the rule-changing proposal that talk of a bolt went about tonight as parading delegations and noisy bands gave a real convention air to politics row along Michigan avenue.

The feeling of those who declare the Roosevelt people seek unfair advantage was fed by a statement opposing a change, issued by John W. Davis on his arrival in Chicago, and by similar statements in Ohio by Newton D. Baker and James M. Cox.

Both sides to that controversy claimed tonight a pledged majority, but both were checking and

CURTIS AWAITS TRIAL IN FRAUD

Burrage Will Not Come To New Jersey as Witness

Flemington, N. J., June 25 (AP)—John Hughes Curtis, confessed hoaxer of the Lindbergh case, next week will battle a charge of obstructing justice and without the personal assistance of the two Norfolk, Va., men once associated with him.

Lloyd Fisher, attorney for the Norfolk shipbuilder, sought unsuccessfully today for a bill of particulars in the case and then let it be known Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage of Norfolk had declined to come to Flemington as a witness for Curtis, who recently repudiated his sensational confession.

Curtis' other associate, the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, declines to come here for questioning by authorities but offered to meet their representatives in New York.

Simultaneously, Fisher announced plans to seek dismissal of the Curtis indictment and removal from the prosecutor's staff of Harry Stout, one of the county's oldest active lawyers, when the trial starts on Monday.

Burrage made known his position in a letter to Fisher.

Public Enemy No. 1 Of Detroit Arrested

Detroit, June 25 (AP)—Abe Axler, some times called Detroit's No. 1 public enemy because he was the first tried under the state's new public enemy law, was gathered in today by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy's round up of suspicious characters in connection with the killing last week of Milford Jones, St. Louis gangster.

Axler, one time member of the Purple Gang and arrested for investigation in connection with almost every gang slaying of recent years, was acquitted in his public enemy trial last fall.

Still searching for Pete Licavoli and Joe Massie, police apparently were as far from a solution of the slaying that occurred in a night club here, as they were when it first was reported.

but in brilliant succession he shot sub-par rounds of 69 to 69, the first time in the history of the tournament that a player has broken 70 for two successive rounds. His final tally was 78-74-69-69—289.

Leo Diegel, alternately brilliant and mediocre, wound up in fourth place all by himself with 73-74-73-74—294. A stroke behind him, in fifth position was Wiffy Cox, whose last day comeback enabled him to post 80-73-70-72—295. Jurado, who was tied for the lead after 36 holes and did not crack until the last nine of his final round, finished sixth with 74-71-75-76—296 in his first bid for the United States championship.

The defending champion, Bill Burke, lost sight of in the last wild scramble, finished eleven strokes back of the new titleholder, tied with Harry Cooper and Olin Dutra for seventh place with 297 each.

Burke's last round of 71 was his best but it was too late. Dutra, a one-day wonder when he set the first round pace with a 69 ruined his chances on two holes—an eight on the 15th in the morning and a seven on the fifth in the afternoon, each due to a drive out of bounds.

Walter Hagen "blew" on the last day, much to his own and everybody else's surprise, and was tenth with a final score of 298. No one else among the 72 finalists "broke" 300, although Clarence Clark posted exactly that figure. George Von Elm, the "business man" who gave Burke such a terrific fight before yielding in a 72-hole playoff last year, was never a contender and wound up with 306.

BODY OF SLAIN MAN RECOVERED

Turley May Eventually Go to Trial for Illinois Crime

Detroit, June 25 (AP)—The police announced tonight that tentative plans have been made to start Orville J. Turley back to Colorado Monday in custody of officers from that state who came here today to return him to the state penitentiary from which he escaped while serving a life sentence.

Turley, held here in connection with a wire tapping fraud in which the Western Union Telegraph company was victimized, has confessed he killed Clyde Bailey, his partner in the fraud, and threw the latter's body in the Mississippi river. Detroit police tonight were awaiting fingerprints and photographs of a body taken from the river near Delta, Ark., yesterday. The body is believed to be that of Bailey.

Turley cannot be tried for Bailey's slaying in Illinois, the place where the crime was committed, until the body of the man taken from the Mississippi has been definitely identified. Meanwhile he is to be taken back to Colorado to be turned over to Illinois authorities later if the body is found to be that of Bailey.

Hoover Resting In His Rapidan Camp

Luray, Va., June 25 (AP)—With only his family around him, President Hoover rested tonight in his Rapidan fishing camp high in the Virginia mountains.

For almost the first time in the three year history of the president's mountain retreat, no guests were invited for the week-end.

White house officials said that only Mrs. Hoover and Herbert Hoover, Jr., her oldest son, were present with the chief executive at the camp aside from his personal aides.

The president's decision to spend the week-end in the mountains was sudden. So hurried was his departure that he ordered lunch baskets prepared for the newspapermen who usually accompany him, since they had no time for luncheon elsewhere.

Archbishop Curley Honored At Dublin

Dublin, June 25 (AP)—A signal honor was conferred on American Catholicism today when Archbishop Michael J. Curley was selected to celebrate the solemn pontifical high mass which will climax and conclude the Eucharistic congress tomorrow.

Today was children's day. Some 150,000 of them gathered in Phoenix park at noon when Archbishop Kelly, of Sydney, celebrated pontifical mass.

Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate to the congress, presided over the services. Among the American prelates present were Cardinal Hayes of New York and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston. Each child was granted an indulgence of 500 days.

Murphy To Support Abrogation Scheme

Detroit, June 25. (AP)—Announcing his intention of supporting the move to abolish the two-thirds rule in the Democratic party, Mayor Frank Murphy left for the national convention at Chicago tonight.

The mayor also said he favored abolition of the unit rule in the convention.

"I have long thought that both rules should be abolished," he said. "They favor organized minorities out to block the will of the party majority, and that, of course, is essentially undemocratic."

The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower, will join the mayor at the convention tomorrow.

MICHIGAN BLOC FOR ROOSEVELT

Gray, Lansing, who was here as an observer; Frank A. Picard, Saginaw, who has been mentioned as a candidate for governor, and several delegates and alternates who exert wide influence, intimated they would like to see Baker the nominee.

The Michigan delegation is bound by the unit rule. Thus its entire ballot strength will go for one candidate. In compliance with the instruction by the state convention the 38 votes will be cast solidly for Roosevelt on the first group of ballots and until it is apparent a deadlock has been reached. William A. Comstock, former national committeeman, believes the delegation is even willing to vote for abrogation of the 100 year old rule requiring a two-thirds majority to nominate a presidential candidate, to help the Roosevelt cause.

Some of the delegates, however, felt differently about it. They prefer retention of the two-thirds rule because in it they see their only chance to nominate Baker.

The arrival of Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit, was awaited to precipitate a more vigorous discussion of the nomination controversy. Murphy is understood to have taken the attitude that the state delegates should stay with Roosevelt to the bitter end. How much influence Murphy can exert upon the out-state delegates and organization leaders was a question.

While the delegation as a whole was willing to support Murphy should his name be offered for the vice presidency and while they were watching with interest a gubernatorial boom launched by Murphy's friends, Comstock and others had no hesitancy in declaring that they think Murphy is a "fair weather" Democrat, who never did much for the party in the lean years.

Aside from the possibility of a deadlock and a swing to Baker, the delegates were interested principally in the prohibition plank—which they hope will advocate repeal and will be in line with the state declaration on the subject—and in grooming this or that outstanding Democrat for the gubernatorial primary. Claude S. Carney, of Kalamazoo, is the only avowed candidate for governor. Some groups professed doubt that he can command sufficient support in Wayne county and other populous centers because he is not well enough known.

FARM AID PLAN GETS APPROVAL

agriculture to determine the percenage of production of a commodity that will be used for domestic consumption. The secretary then would issue adjustment certificates to the farmer to the amount of his share of the domestic consumption.

These certificates would equal the tariff protection on that commodity less administrative costs and would be redeemable in money.

To raise money to redeem the certificates, the bill would levy a tax on processors. This tax would be equal to the tariff which would be fixed at five cents a pound on cotton. On wheat the processing tax would be 42 cents a bushel and on hogs two cents a pound.

The tax so collected would be held in a "domestic adjustment fund" and paid out upon presentation of the certificates. Processors would be refunded the tax on commodities exported.

Dawe's Daughter Engaged To Marry

Chicago, June 25. (AP)—The engagement of Miss Virginia Dawes, 18-year-old daughter of General and Mrs. Charles Gates Dawes, and Ensign John Gardner Tennent, U. S. N., the culmination of a romance started in Washington, D. C., was announced today by her parents.

No date for the wedding has been set, but Mrs. Dawes said it probably would not take place "for a year or two."

WOOD IS LIKELY TO ENTER RACE

State Senator Considers Candidacy for Gubernatorial Post

Detroit, June 25 (AP)—State Senator Arthur E. Wood, Detroit, who differs with Governor Wilber M. Brucker on a lot of matters, may be one of the governor's opponents in the forthcoming gubernatorial primaries. Wood is not ready to formally announce his candidacy, but he said today that he was being urged to enter the race.

"If I thought the mass of the people wanted me, I would be a candidate," he said. He added that he thought he would have the support of former Governor Fred W. Green and several other state leaders known to be opposed to Governor Brucker.

The Wood statement caused no little speculation in local Republican political circles particularly since a promised "surprise announcement of a gubernatorial candidacy" failed to materialize at a meeting last night of the Michigan Civic League.

Await Welsh Reply

Officially no explanation was made, but informally one local Republican worker said the announcement had been withheld because George W. Welsh, city manager of Grand Rapids, and an avowed candidate, had not replied to an invitation to state definitely whether he would withdraw if former Governor Alex J. Groesbeck decided to enter the race.

Without referring to Wood, the same worker said:

"Green is out to beat Brucker. If Groesbeck runs, our candidate won't run, and Green will support Groesbeck."

Most of the Michigan Republican leaders who attended the national convention at Chicago last week seemed to be convinced that former Governor Groesbeck had definitely decided not to enter the gubernatorial contest when he accepted an offer to represent the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in the $1,600,000 gasoline tax collection suit filed against it by the State of Michigan.

Christian Endeavor Convention Ended

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 25 (AP)—The Michigan Christian Endeavor Union wound up the business of its annual convention here today, electing Charles W. Puehl of this city as president.

The annual oratorical contest was won by Barbara Boyce of Detroit, speaking on the topic "Loyalty, a Character in Christian Endeavor."

Elected today besides the president were:

First vice president, Theodore Dikkstra, Detroit, re-elected; second vice president, G. Ira Wilkinson, Detroit, reelected; corresponding secretary, Helen Puehl, Detroit; secretary, Sarah E. McCullagh, Detroit, reelected; treasurer, J. Floyd Jarnagin, Detroit; assistant treasurer, Velma Squires, Flint.

Bank In Bay City Reopens On Friday

Bay City, Mich., June 25 (AP)—The First National and Bay County Savings Bank will be open for business Friday, July 1, as the National Bank of Bay City, it was announced today by M. W. Carroll, president.

All of the assets and liabilities of the two closed banks have been purchased by the new institution. This was made possible by 12,522 of the 14,500 depositors pledging the required 95 per cent of the total deposits in the closed banks, and by stockholders voluntarily paying in $500,000—$400,000 for capital, and $100,000 for surplus.

The new bank is opening under what is known as the 50-50 plan, 50 per cent of the deposits being placed in trust, and the balance made available for withdrawal over a period of four years.

Another amateur band leader was William G. McAdoo, who marched up the street with a Texas band assisting the John H. Garner candidacy.

Governor Byrd visited the headquarters of all the other candidates. A woman stopped him as he walked up the corridor.

"Are you the flier?" she asked excitedly.

"No, that's my brother," Governor Byrd answered.

"Oh, I see," she said. "You're just running, not flying."

Former Senator Reed went down to the railroad station to escort the Missouri delegation to its headquarters. Then he went into a long and secret conference with the members.

James A. Farley had a busy day as chief marshal of the Roosevelt forces. He had conferences with several favorite sons and campaign managers, but said they were only talking about "convention tickets." At intervals he kept the New York governor advised by long distance phone of the progress of his campaign.

Melvin A. Traylor continued to shun his campaign headquarters and stuck to his Chicago bank.

AN ODD FOURSOME

Willie Kline, Professional Wheatley Hills Country Club, East Williston, Long Island, tells of one of his members who had a "courage of his convictions" attitude toward iife and golf in particular. He stepped on the first tee one day and drove four balls down the first fairway before he was hailed by the chairman of the Greens Committee and worned not to practice on that tee. He answered back that he wasn't practicing but playing a foursome. The chairman pointed out that he only had one caddie for a foursome which was against the rules of the club. So the member called for three more caddies and went into the club house and took out three guest tickets for the other three balls. He flashed these in the chairman's face and sauntered up the fairway perfectly contented.

DI-JO FOR STOMACH ILLS

People who suffer with stomach trouble must remember that the stomach is an extremely delicate organ. The membranes and the tissues are extremely sensitive and too much food or too rich food or the wrong kind of food upsets it. Most everyone at one time or another suffers from such upsets. Di-Jo is a digestive tablet which aids the digestion, neutralizes the acidity of the stomach, eliminates gas and belching, sweetens the breath and enables the system to assimilate the vitamins of the food. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of Di-Jo. Follow directions and if you don't get immediate relief take four more tablets in half an hour. Then you'll become a Di-Jo fan. If the bowels are lazy, get a bottle of Di-Vac. It will eliminate the poison from the intestines and aid in the work of rehabilitating the stomach. If your druggist hasn't Di-Jo or Di-Vac, write Drug Products, Marshall, Mich.—Adv.

—EDITORIAL—

ECONOMIES NEEDED

THE increase in the cost of county government in Delta during the last decade stands out like a sore thumb when brought into comparison with the expenditures of the other governmental units.

In 1922, the county tax rate was $8.06 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, while in 1931 it was $12.51, an increase of more than fifty per cent. At the same time, the Escanaba city tax rate has declined from $15.65 in 1922 to $13.65 in 1931, and what is still better is the announcement made last week that the 1932 rate would be $12.65.

During the same period, the county road tax has advanced from $3.48 to $4.00, while the state tax has been raised from $3.21 to $4.27. It will be noted, however, that the increase in the general county tax rate is way out of proportion.

The various governmental bodies in Escanaba, Gladstone and in the townships have already effected real economies in the spending of the public's money. Some of these officials are members of the county board of supervisors, and it is expected that they will continue their policy of retrenchment when they meet at the court house in Escanaba tomorrow.

By their performance in the past, the supervisors have shown they are always willing to do what they feel is for the best interests of the citizens at large. They have not been swayed by the demands of minority groups, but have abided by the wishes of the majority.

The taxpayers of the county are united in the plea for reduced taxes. In these times when business and labor have suffered great losses in income, they cannot stand up under the burden of the sky-high taxes of a past Prosperity Era. The Press has confidence in the supervisors that they will take heed of the wishes of the taxpayers and present economic conditions to bring about a satisfactory solution of the county tax problem.

OUR HALF-HONEST PEOPLE

WHEN the Right Rev. Irving P. Johnson, Episcopal bishop of Colorado, told the graduating class at Union College the other day that the bane of American life is the nation's vast number of "half-truthful, half-honest" people, he touched on a flaw that usually gets overlooked.

These people, he explained, are those that "make our political platforms, regulate the stock market and muddle our whole educational system with the half truth that education will make a nation righteous."

As individuals, he said, not one of them would pick another man's pocket; as members of a political group or a social or economic class they would blithely deprive a nation of its heritage.

What the bishop seems to have been getting at is the fact that we do not live in such a clear-cut, black-and-white world as we like to suppose. We may be betrayed, over and over, by political or business leaders, but the men who betray us aren't conscious villains. Instead they belong to that half-truthful, half-honest group which has lost the capacity to assay its own actions correctly.

The politician who accepts the support of a corrupt municipal gang and thereby helps to perpetrate it; the financier who fans the flames of speculation and paves the way for a panic; the industrialist who owns a coal mine where men are as truly enslaved as Siberian serfs; the publicist who averts public wrath from such people by acting as their apologist—these men, without exception, think that they are doing the right thing.

They are, in other words, scrupulously honest according to their lights. The tragedy is that the lights by which they live are at fault.

That is the point we must recognize if we are to iron out the kinks in our national life. It isn't enough to have leaders who are honest—for most men, after all, are as honest as they know how to be. They must also know exactly where they are going. In plain English, they must combine honesty with intelligence.

CUTTING CITY EXPENSES

(Iron Mountain News)

THE mayor has called a special session of the city council for next Monday evening at which there will be a discussion of ways to reduce municipal expenses. He is insistent that something be done, for the city's liquid cash is rapidly drying up and at its present rate of evaporation there will not be enough to last the remaining nine months of the fiscal year.

The mayor may rest assured that there is a unanimity of public opinion behind the thought that city expenses must be cut. The necessity is painfully apparent. It is plain that unless there is conservation of the municipality's resources they will soon be exhausted and no magician's wand nor alchemist's theory will restore the golden flow. This is at least one occasion when public opinion is in agreement.

But the public opinion that is in agreement on need for retrenchment begins to diverge on how to bring it about. That's the rub for the mayor and council. They will be under great pressure to "save this" and "keep that," and they may rest assured that whatever they do there will be some criticism. Knowing this and knowing also that there is no alternative to retrenchment except financial collapse and higher taxes, they may best approach their problem with sincere purpose to handle it regardless of factional differences and special pleas by special interests.

The city unfortunately has a considerable portion of its funds tied up in the bank that recently closed. There is some doubt whether or not its account is in a preferred classification and will be paid in full at an early date, and it can take no chances that this doubt will resolve itself in its favor. The situation must be dealt with as is and not as it is hoped to be.

Added to this difficulty is the unusually heavy delinquent tax list from which little more revenue may be expected during the year. Miscellaneous income has also shown an alarming falling off.

In other words, the city has approximately $54,000 that it can definitely count upon to pay running expenses for the rest of the fiscal year.

But at the present average rate of expenditure this $54,000 will cover about half the distance still to go. The municipality is coasting along on nearly the same expense schedule that obtained in the days when money was comparatively plentiful and taxes were easy to collect. There has been a slight downward trend, to be sure, but nothing substantial enough to bring outgo back within hailing distance of available income. The average monthly expenditure is $11,000, which, without revision and with nine months left of the fiscal year, will mean $99,000 spent, or $45,000 more than the $54,000 in the treasury. The result will be payless creditors and payless paydays.

If the mayor and council are at all apprehensive about criticism that they will encounter by drastic economy measures now, they should be more apprehensive about the greater amount they will receive if the day arrives that there is no cash on hand to meet bills and city employes must arrange credit extensions with the grocer and clothier and landlord. And that day is surely in sight unless it is forestalled by immediate action.

The mayor and council may feel certain that by fair handling of their problem all along the line they will earn the commendation of the majority of the public and will likewise have contributed to the city's welfare by a constructive move. Their task is unpleasant, but will not be without the reward of the public appreciation that will follow from their being able to show a record of having given business-like attention to a serious case.

SUNSET, THEN DAWN

When shall the heart be sad? Not surely at the dawn,
With all the day ahead, and all the darkness gone.
However sad the night, the thoughts of sleepless hours,
The lamp of hope should light with morn's returning flow'rs.

When shall the heart despair? Not surely at the noon,
When hearts may do and dare, nor need to weep so soon.
So much of day remains to fashion as we will,
We need not wear the chains of some departed ill.

When shall the heart be sad? Not surely at the eve,
When all the hurt it had leaves when the shadows leave.
However long they lie across the path of men,
Now roseate the sky—sunset, then dawn again!

CHAPTER XXVIII

DAN and the girl in white were almost abreast of Cherry before they recognized her. Dan called out, "Hello, Cherry. Waiting long?"

There was a bright circle of red in each of Cherry's cheeks. "Hello," she said evenly, determined to seem as casual as he had been. "I've been here a while. I really haven't noticed how long."

The other girl smiled. "I don't believe you remember me, Mrs. Phillips," she said. "I'm Connie Randolph. We met at the Caseys' party—the night you were married."

"How do you do. Yes, of course I remember."

The slight note of frigidity was not to be missed. The other girl hesitated a moment. Then she said, "It's awfully nice to see you again. Well—I must hurry or I'll miss my bus."

She directed her smile at Dan, turned and was gone.

"Look here, Cherry, you might have been a little more cordial to old Connie—"

"Old Connie! Is that what you call her? I don't think you need to give me lessons in etiquette, Dan. She didn't even know I was talking—looking at you all the time!"

"Cherry! For Lord sake—!"

She must not let him see that her lips were trembling. She must not let the tears come. To steady herself Cherry turned away.

Dan's hand was on her arm. "Honestly, honey," he said in a softer tone. "I don't understand. Is anything wrong? Gosh—you've been away so long and it's so good to see you—"

"You didn't seem to think much about me when that Connie was here!"

Dan's laugh was a short, derisive shout. "Don't tell me you're jealous, Cherry! Not of old Connie! Oh, that's too ridiculous!"

She whirled and mist made the brown eyes larger, more luminous. She forgot that her lips were trembling. She said, "I've been so lonesome! I've counted on this meeting so. And then you came with—that other girl! You were laughing as though you'd forgotten all about me—!"

It was six o'clock of a June evening in the center of Wellington's business district. There were a score of pedestrians in sight. Nevertheless Dan Phillips put both arms around his wife.

"Cherry," he declared, "I swear if you look at me like that again I'll kiss you. I don't care if the entire population is glaring at us. I don't care if the Mayor and the Chief of Police and the Editor of the News all are watching. I think I'll do it anyhow!"

But he didn't. The girl broke away from him, laughing.

"Dan Phillips, you're impossible! You're getting sillier every day—!"

"Oho! That's the welcome I get, is it? That's my reward for dutifully putting out the milk bottles and feeding the cat."

"But I thought Dixie was taking care of Pinkie?"

"Oh, well—a mere figure of speech! Anyhow I did put out the milk bottles. Seven of 'em this morning."

"Why, Dan, you haven't been eating at home, have you?"

"No, but I drank the milk. Say, Cherry, I'm glad you're back! I tried to fix the place up a little last night but I'm afraid I didn't get rid of all the dust. How's your mother today? Come on—what do you say we have dinner and you can tell me all about everything—"

THEY went to Schroeders', the restaurant where they had dined so often together. It was pleasant to be welcomed by fat, affable Charlie Schroeder and shown to their favorite table. It was pleasant to note the deference with which Dan was greeted.

After the food had been ordered Cherry talked of her mother's recovery. She asked questions about Dan's work and what he had been doing. She wanted to know everything that had happened in those days of separation that had seemed months.

"Same old grind," Dan told her carelessly. "I played cards a couple nights with the boys. Max came over one evening and—well, I guess that's about all. Looks as though there's going to be another investigation down at City Hall."

He went on to give her the newest development in local politics. Cherry tried to seem interested. Presently she said,

"You know, Dan, Mother and—well, Father, too—were both awfully nice about everything. They understand about us wanting to be married and they're not angry any more. Mother's going to send the car for me every day so I can go out and spend a little time with her. I'll want to until she's feeling strong again."

"Well, that's all right."

Cherry hesitated. "I was thinking," she went on, "that it would be nice if you'd come with me some time."

"Cherry, you know I can't do that!"

"Oh, I know you couldn't during the week but on Sunday or some evening—"

Phillips' chin was set in a hard line. "I can't go Sunday or any time," he said sharply. "Your father asked me to leave his house. I can't go into it—and I won't—until he asks me to come. You can go there as often as you please but you'll have to go alone!"

"But, Dan—"

"There's no use talking about it, Cherry. That's the way I feel and I won't change my mind. If your father wants me to come he can ask me."

The girl sat silent. It was no use; when Dan took that tone she might as well keep quiet. He was as stubborn in his way as was her father. Cherry sighed. After a little she began to talk of other things. Dan's surliness disappeared and when they left the restaurant he was in good spirits once more.

"How about a movie?" he suggested.

"No, Dan, I think I'd rather go home. To tell the truth I'm sort of homesick to see the place again."

DAN had been right about his efforts at housecleaning. Inspired though they were by high motives, the results were questionable. He had certainly failed to "get rid of all the dust."

Cherry was at work early next morning. She wore an old dress that was ruined for any other purpose, rolled up her sleeves and tied a towel about her head. For an hour she wielded a broom vigorously. Then with a pail of warm, soapy water she began to wash woodwork. She had just finished scrubbing the floor of the bathroom when the ringing of the bell indicated that someone downstairs wanted to see her.

Cautiously Cherry looked over the bannister.

"O, Martin!" she called. "I had no idea it was so late! If you'll wait just a few minutes I'll hurry!"

She darted back into the apartment, threw off the disreputable dress and dashed water on her face. Ten minutes later she came running down the stairs.

Martin, dignified as always, helped her into the car and closed the door after her.

Cherry enjoyed the drive. She found her mother sitting in the big chair before a window of her bedroom. A bowl of roses from her garden filled the room with their spicey perfume. There was sunshine outside but the bedroom was cool and lowered awnings kept out the glare of the sun.

Mrs. Dixon was smiling as Cherry entered. The nurse slipped away and left them together. They were talking of inconsequential subjects when, in the midst of a sentence, Mrs. Dixon's words broke off.

"Cherry!" she exclaimed. "Your hands—what on earth have you been doing with them?"

The girl glanced down. Against the brown crepe of her frock her two hands flamed bright pink. They looked swollen and rough.

"Why—I—" Cherry began, "they do look badly, don't they? It—it must have been something in the water."

She knew very well what had caused that redness—the compound she had put into the scrubbing water. Cherry laughed uneasily. "I'll have to get a lotion of some sort, I guess."

"There's one on my dressing table," Mrs. Dixon instructed her. "Put some on right away. I've always been proud of your hands, Cherry. You mustn't let anything spoil them."

The girl had found the sweet-smelling mixture and poured some of it into her palm. "Of course not," she said. "I'll remember."

THREE days later Cherry noticed her mother again looking at her hands. "I must remember," the girl thought. "I'll have to get rubber gloves and wear them."

There was another incident that disturbed Cherry. It was the second week after she had returned to the apartment and housework. She arrived at her parents' home late in the afternoon. Mrs. Dixon was in the living room with two guests, Mrs. Alden and her daughter, Gretchen.

Gretchen Alden, who was fair-haired and blue-eyed looked particularly attractive in a frock of blue organdie. Her leghorn hat had just enough of the Watteau shepherdess about it and just enough of the Parisian designer's touch to be both picturesque and chic.

Cherry was wearing a shantung sports dress. It was one from last summer and looked it but Cherry herself had not been conscious of this fact until she saw Gretchen. Mrs. Alden and her daughter excused themselves soon and Cherry saw them to the door.

When she returned Mrs. Dixon said, "Cherry, I want you to go to Madeline's tomorrow and pick out some new clothes. Charge them to my account. It will be all right—"

"Oh, but I couldn't do that! Dan would never stand for it."

"Then you'll have to manage without his knowing. I'm not going to have you practically in rags. You look a sight! Besides, you really need some dresses."

Cherry laughed. "I'm sure I don't know what for," she said. "We're not going anywhere. Dan's holding over his vacation until fall so we can save some money."

"But I want you to promise me you'll get those dresses."

Cherry couldn't very well refuse. There didn't seem to be any reason why she should. After all, why should Dan object if her mother wanted to buy her a few pretty dresses?

"I'll see," she said. "I can't go tomorrow but I'll see. That was a pretty thing Gretchen was wearing, wasn't it?"

It was two days later that Cherry's father stopped her as she was going through the hall.

"Come into the study a moment, will you?" he asked. "Your mother and I have a plan and I hope you'll agree with us."

THEATRES

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., lately starred in "Union Depot" and "It's Tough To Be Famous," comes to the Delft Theatre again today in "Love Is A Racket," a First National picture in which the young star appears as a wise Broadway columnist.

Doug, Jr., has rapidly come to the top of the list of popular stars for his portrayals of contemporary types of young heroes. As the columnist in "Love Is A Racket," Doug writes of the doings, love affairs and quarrels of Broadway's great and near great. He himself becomes involved in a love affair of the type he writes about, in spite of his supposed wisdom and knowledge of the gay white way.

The columnist's love affair, however, turns out differently for him. He becomes embroiled in a series of happenings which lead to an exciting climax.

The story is fast-paced and modern in plot, action and setting. The cast brings youth and charm to the story, as well as the definite talents which have brought the young players to screen heights. Playing leading roles with young Fairbanks, Jr., are Ann Dvorak, Lee Tracy, Frances Dee, Lysle Talbot, Warren Hymer and Andre Luguet. Miss Dvorak and Tracey are the two newcomers who scored such a great success in "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain." Miss Dee is best-known for her performance in "American Tragedy."

LENERT'S CAPTURE

On June 27, 1918, the story of the heroism of Private Frank P. Lenert, German-American soldier from Chicago, was made public.

Lenert had been surrounded by 83 Germans while a small American force was staging an attack. His captors showed interest in knowing how many Americans were in the attacking party. They knew that an American barrage behind them had cut off their retreat.

Lenert informed them that eight regiments were in the attack and that they were following him. The Germans, seeing a huge force in front of them, and the American barrage behind, decided to surrender without fighting. They agreed that Lenert should have the honor of accepting the surrender.

The American lined them all up, made them throw away their rifles, and marched them back to the American lines.

Do You Remember?

When the Flath boys had the job of herding cows to the pastures on the west and north end of the town more than twenty years ago? Many families had a cow in those days, and there were several hundred that were taken to the pastures. One pasture was located near the old race track while the other was around the Danforth hill.

When Bredahls conducted the boarding house at the old saw-mill at Flat Rock, near where the No. 1 dam is now located?

Way back about twenty years ago on June 24 there was an exceptionally heavy frost, and every bit of garden stuff about town was ruined?

When Belle Harvey was lost while picking berries in the vicinity of the Danforth hill? The railway shops and some business places were virtually closed down as the whole community joined in the search. She was found on the fourth day, and had suffered no ill effects from her experience.

One Way to Avoid Sunburn is Stay at Home in Your Cellar

Manny people have ask me why it was I did not go to the Republic conventon at Chicago and write it up for this papper but I always tell them it was no use as every body knew before hand how it was going to come out and it could have been wrote up for the papper just as good if no reporters had been there like Obituarys are wrote up before a funeral and I could not see noting funny in that Republic conventon

But I am going to a conventon this month & I do not mean the Democrat one either but where I am going there will be not wet planks to woory about and that is at Salt St. Marie for the Legion conventon

Well now that the Republicans have got the Decorations and the hall all paid for down at Chicago the Democrats should ought to get by pretty cheap with their convention and maybe make some money if they had a good man handling the job and selling pop and etc, or whatever it is that Democrats drink to get that way

And I see where Roosevelt has picked white and baby blue for his colors and he thinks they are lucky but others do not think that day and they tell me here in Democrat circles that Delta county is just as good as gone Democratic if they find a candate for President who will put some of Hennesseys Stars or a Log Cabin on his campaign flag and have for his mottoe a Full Beer Pail but for white and baby blue a red nose would look out of place but what they need to win is a Democratic Dolly Gann

Well writeing a check for money these days is like writeing home for money as both cost you two cents so may be now this will do away with the pest that writes you out a check for 30 cents

Well from what I see things are getting back to normal as there the June brides are getting their pictures taken and our married friend says no picture of his wife would be natural unless it was a talking picture.

DOLLARS AND SENSE AND SILVER SHOES

You who walk sedately
With the young queen moon
Haven't been out lately
In a pair of silver shoon
To watch a sable unicorn
Running on the sands
Where all the maidens of the morn
Are joining rosy hands.

You've never tossed a pebble
Into a crystal lake
And listened to the treble
Melodies that make
Rhyme out of reason
And rhythm out of tones
And crosses out as treason
Old Time's bones.

Here's a bit of buttonwood
And here's leaf of willow;
Don't you think a star
Should decorate my pillow?
Don't you think that comet's floss
Would do to bind my hair?
Spiders make a lace gloss
Plenty and to spare.

Planets string a lavalliere
To garnish my throat . . .
Can the baby birds bear
Such a sweet note?
Sell your heart for silver shoon
'Fore it is too late;
Soon will come the bleak noon,—
You who walk sedate!

That caption up there sounds like a wise-crack. Maybe it is. And maybe not. It is according to the manner in which the reader directs his thinking. If any of you are millionaires you may pass this by. Although, come to think of it, the two or three millionaires whom we have met are the sort who would say "amen" in ringing tones to the idea back of this.

Dollars are important items of commerce. One can purchase a good deal of security, freedom and beauty by spending them wisely. And the getting of them can be made a lively adventure. But the plain, common garden variety of sense tells us that dollars cannot purchase silver shoes.

But most of us lose them or wear them out on the rocky road towards adulthood unless we mind our p's and q's. It seems as though those lucky letters are hard to hold in this world of ours. But, sure it is, the overly sedate people lose more than they can ever know. After all is said and done, there ARE unicorns!

Mayor McKeighan Visits Escanaba; Plans to Tour U. P. Again Next Month

A 14-point platform for Michigan was presented by Mayor William McKeighan of Flint, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, in a brief but highly interesting talk at a meeting of the United Commercial Travelers at the Delta hotel yesterday noon. Abolition of the state property tax and repeal of the Eighteenth amendment were two proposals he particularly emphasized.

Mayor McKeighan, accompanied by Nicholas J. Whalen of Holland and George M. Maines, publisher of the Flint Tribune, arrived in Escanaba yesterday morning from Iron Mountain, and departed in the afternoon for St. Ignace after calling on local friends and Republican leaders. A delegation of the local Eagles lodge also called upon him at the hotel. Mayor McKeighan has been a lecturer of the Eagles lodge for more than twenty years.

The Flint mayor's arrival here yesterday was quite unexpected, for although it was known he intended to visit this city, the exact date was not previously announced. The mayor is a man of slight stature, dressed immaculately yet without fussiness. He has a ready command of the English language but is not bombastic. He is not a drinking man, but is an outspoken anti-Prohibitionist.

McKeighan's Platform.

McKeighan listed his 14 points for Michigan as follows:

Eliminate state tax on real and personal property.

Thoroughly renovate the state government with a view to eliminating useless bodies and commissions, curtailing activities of the state police and removing dead-wood from a greatly reduced payroll.

Old age pensions.

Retail volume tax.

Regulatory legislation permitting of licensing and control of retail merchandising.

Removal of the $50,000 corporation tax limit.

State equalization of all school taxes.

Return to the people of Michigan their rights and privileges to enjoy Nature's bountiful gifts to the commonwealth—gifts that God made for the many and not gifts to be exploited by private interests.

Creation of a public service commission to serve and protect the public as well as the utility companies to the end that the fair and warranted service rates may be restored to the people.

Individual distress caused by unemployment must have constructive and remedial attention from the state.

Creation of state aid for financial institutions so that depositors will be fully protected in times of depression as well as in times of prosperity; strict regulation, in fact as well as in theory, by a competent state group, of all securities offered for public investment.

Mayor McKeighan

Not a road building holiday but a non-political, sensible road building program based on revenues in hand, not revenues in prospect.

Equalize the burden of conservation and promote the state's tourist business to the fullest extent.

Repeal the 18th amendment to the federal constitution and all supplemental Michigan laws, substituting therefor the right of this state to deal with the question as its people shall direct.

To Return to U. P.

Mayor McKeighan will return to the upper peninsula to make a more extensive tour. He merely wanted to find out what the people of the upper peninsula are thinking about the problems of state government on this initial trip, he explained.

Both Mr. Whalen and Mr. Maines, his companions, have had long public careers. Mr. Whalen has been a newspaper publisher, members of the state legislature, and United States marshal. Mr. Maines has been publisher of the Flint Tribune for the last year, is prominent in American Legion activities, and for several years was engaged in newspaper work in New York.

BANKERS TELL OF CHECK TAX

Details of New Federal Levy Regulation Is Explained

Escanaba bankers, since the check-tax went into effect June 21, have been conducting impromptu schools of instruction relative to the regulation, but in spite of that, they reported today, many are still considerably confused about what is going to happen to their deposits as the result of the federal levy.

Depositors here will receive a charge ticket showing the amount of tax charged to his or her account at the end of each month for checks of the preceding month. Thus, the tax on checks written between June 21 and the end of this month will not be shown as having been deducted until the July bank statement is received on July 31.

See One Objection

The method is open to the possible objection that an account may be entirely withdrawn, or so depleted at the end of the month, as to leave an insufficient balance against which to make the charge. According to the American Banking Association, how ever, it would seem that a bank would always have it within its power before the end of a given month, prior to allowing an account to be depleted, to charge the account with the tax upon checks already paid.

Furthermore, the association has been unofficially advised from Washington that if an account is closed out during the month without a tax charged against the account, the bank would not be liable under the law for the tax, but would have to certify in its monthly return that, through error, such account had been closed out, and a certain amount of unpaid tax remained. This opinion, however, is not final.

Travelers' Checks

Travelers' checks drawn on a bank would seem taxable under the law. Unofficial advice has been received from the treasury department that the issuing bank will collect the tax from the purchaser, then remit to the drawee, which would have the responsibility of paying the tax to the government; that this would be so even though the drawee does not have a deposit to the credit of the drawer in its hands at the time it pays the check. Official rulings must be awaited for any more definite or changed information.

When a check is presented for payment and returned unpaid because of insufficient funds or other reason, there is no obligation on the part of the bank to collect a tax.

Cashier's Checks.

The question is asked whether cashier's checks issued by banks are subject to tax. In the case of cashier's checks, the instrument is drawn upon the bank itself, and there would seem no question but that it is taxable, according to the bankers' association.

Following is the text of the law which, differing from the check tax, has no date of expiration:

Tax On Deposit Boxes

1. There is hereby imposed a tax equivalent to 10 per cent of the amount collected on or after the 15th day after the enactment of this act, for the use after such date of any safe deposit box, such tax to be paid by the person paying for the use of the safe deposit box.

2. A NEW RACKET

Ensign, Mich., June 24, 1932.

Gentlemen:

I do not know if your attention has been called to the new type of racket operating in Delta county or not, but here it is:

Today a man called representing a so-called tax reduction association. The object of this company was to reduce automobile licenses and add one cent on the gas tax.

All it cost to join was the small fee of $2.

It has yet to be proven where such an association is of any value and furthermore $2 doesn't go very far for traveling expenses for the three men in this particular party. A few good times, rooms, meals, gas, etc., will not leave much for the original so-called tax association.

Yours truly,

ARTHUR WEBERG.

HIS MONEY'S WORTH

"It's scandalous to charge us $10 for towing the car only three or four miles," protested the motorist's wife.

"Never mind, dear," replied hubby, "he's earning it; I've got my brakes on."—Answers.

Good Progress Is Made On Highway Building In U. P.

Satisfactory progress is reported on all major highway construction jobs underway in the upper peninsula by J. T. Sharpensteen, division engineer for the state highway department.

Mr. Sharpensteen, in a statement issued yesterday, summarized the U. P. road work as follows:

Fitzpatrick and Gatiss are finishing trimming on the grading project on US-2, three miles west of Hermansville. They are making preparation to start placing gravel surfacing on the Hardwood-Foster City job, grading for which is about completed. This concern has the contract for grading between Phoenix and Short Cut on US-41 in Keweenaw county and should complete within the next month.

Champion Job Nears End

Thornton Brothers are putting the final touches on the four-mile grading contract on US-41 between Hancock and Calumet. They will soon have finished the paving between Champion and Michigamme on US141 and will be starting paving on the two and one-half miles on US-2 south of Rudyard as soon as the grading is completed.

Herman Holmes has completed the three miles of paving on M-69 east of Crystal Falls that was carried over from last year. Trimming is under way and the entire job will be completed soon.

S. D. Solomon has resumed work on the grading of the relocation of M-28 between Wakefield and Tula.

D. L. Norton, who has two contracts on M-67 on the west side of Lake Gogebic, is pushing grading on both jobs and is stocking gravel for surfacing the job in Ontonagon county as soon as the grading has been completed.

The Bacco Construction company will finish grading within the next week or two on the Escanaba-Ford River, and Iron Mountain north projects. The bride at Ford River is nearing completion.

C. G. Bridges has about completed the grading job and bridge contract on US-2 at Spalding. The bridge at Hardwood on M-69 is nearing completion.

A major portion of the grading on M-94 at Au Train has been completed and the contractor is ready to start gravel surfacing.

Paving on US-41 west of Marquette will be completed this week.

Steals 25 Chickens, Leaves $30 Behind

Mike Wnic, of LaBranche, Mich., was bemoaning the loss of twenty-five springers stolen from his farm the other night, when he noticed a leather bill fold on the ground near the coop. In it was $30 in bills and some silver. Now Mike is waiting for the owner of the bill fold to show up. He wants to give him his change.

M-35 Grading Job Will End July 1

Menominee—Grading on the new right-of-way for Highway M-35 south of Fox will be completed by July 1 and graveling operations approved by the state administrative board this week will be started soon thereafter, George Barstow, county road commissioner, said today.

Four and one-half miles of new constructin on M-35 have been under way between Cedar River and Fox since last summer. The work is a state project and has not been going forward at full pace of late because of the unsettled condition of state finances as reflected in activities of the state highway department.

Grading of the new road at the southern end of the project is now under way. First application of gravel has already been made on a mile and a half of the new grade at the northern end of the project and a mile stretch of the new grade, ungraveled, to the south of the graveled section, is also bearing traffic. At the southern end of the project the new right-of-way does not follow the old road, which is still bearing traffic.

Graveling of the four and a half miles on M-35 will be completed by September 15, Mr. Barstow said. A gravel crusher has been erected and is ready for operation in a pit near Fox.

The state administrative board this week also approved concrete paving of two and a half miles of new highway on the route of US-41 between Spalding and Powers.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother, Rev. Dr. C. Albert Lund, of Bethany Lutheran church, reading the impressive marriage service. The living room of the home in which members of the bridal party took their places for the ceremony, was beautifully decorated in pink and white peonies and roses.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Ernest Martin of this city, as matron of honor, and Miss Theodora Holmes of Gladstone, her bridesmaid. Ernest Martin and Carl Widell were the bridegroom's attendants.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, extremely long, with a lace jacket, and her hat and slippers were of white. She carried a bride's bouquet of Calla lilies tied with satin ribbon streamers. Mrs. Martin was gowned in green crepe with her hat and slippers of white, and Miss Holmes wore a gown of yellow crepe with white hat and slippers. Both carried arm bouquets of roses and baby breath.

A wedding dinner served at 8 o'clock at Peterson's Tea Room, Ford River, to twenty-five guests, followed the ceremony. Ida Stenstrom Is Bride of Rev. Sigfrid Engstrom

One of the lovliest church ceremonies of the month of June, Saturday evening united in marriage Miss Ida C. Stenstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Stenstrom, 1323 Stephenson avenue, and Rev. Sigfrid E. Engstrom, of Chicago, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock in Bethany Lutheran church by Rev. Dr. C. Albert Lund, pastor, before a large assemblage of relatives and friends of the young people.

The church was beautifully decorated. Ferns and palms formed a background of green for peonies, snap dragons and roses of white and pink, which were arranged with tall tapers, whose soft light added to the beauty of the church.

A program of bridal music, including, "I Love You Truly," and "O Promise Me," was played by Mrs. V. F. Anderson, organist, as the guests assembled. Just before the entrance of the bridal party, the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Anderson on the beautiful chimes of Bethany church, and the chorus continued as an organ solo, as the bridal party members entered the church and took their places.

At the head of the procession were Rev. Theodore Palmer, of Fitchburg, Mass., and Rev. George Wahlin, of Manistique, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Victoria Dahlberg, of Lake Worth, Florida, Miss Edith Hogberg, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Miss Elin Hogberg, of Keshena, Wis., the maid of honor, Miss Irene H. Stenstrom, preceding the bride. As the bride and her attendants proceeded down the aisle, the bridegroom and his attendant, Rev. David F. Engstrom, of Montevideo, Minn., entered from the side, and awaited her, the young people then taking their places before Rev. Dr. Lund for the ceremony.

Bridal Music

During the impressive marriage service, Mrs. M. E. Engstrom, of Evanston, Ill., sister-in-law of the bridegroom, sang two solos, "Because," and "Promise."

The bride was lovely in a gown of white satin, her veil of white tulle fashioned to a lace cap trimmed with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Her maid of honor wore a beautiful gown of blue net with a pink sash, and her bridesmaids were attired in pretty gowns of pink net with blue sashes. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids carried arm bouquets of pink roses. The bride's mother wore a gown of blue chiffon and with it a corsage of roses, snapdragons and sweet peas.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the recessional, at the close of the ceremony.

Following the ceremony a three-course supper was served in the parlors of the church to eighty-five guests. Eight of the bride's close friends served, and Mrs. J. Carlson was in charge. Pink and white were used in the table decorations of cut flowers and lighted tapers. During the reception following, there was a program of music, including songs by Mrs. Engstrom, and selections by a male quartet of Edwin Olson, Raymond Anderson, Wallace Olson and Arthur Olson. Rev. David Engstrom acted as toastmaster at the reception program.

Rev. and Mrs. Engstrom left on a motor trip after which they will go to St. Louis, Mo., where they will make their home, residing at 3118 St. Vincent avenue.

The bride is a graduate of Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., class of 1929, and has been an instructor in English at the Manistique high school. Rev. Mr. Engstrom is a graduate of Augustana college, class of 1930, receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree, and is also a graduate of Augustana Theological Seminary, receiving a Bachelor of Divinity degree. He was ordained to the ministry at the recent convention of the Lutheran Augustana Synod at Fargo, N. D., and has accepted a call to Gethsemane Lutheran church, St. Louis, Mo.

Missing Girl Found

Sault Ste. Marie — Florence Stevens, 14-year-old daughter of Mrs. Lovica Pearson, 1332 South street, was found by sheriff's officers near Strongs late Thursday afternoon and returned to the Sault awaiting commitment to a girls' school at Ionia.

Information as to the girl's destination and her whereabouts came from three sources. Following a newspaper article concerning her disappearance, M. F. Bunker, of the Superior Apartments, reported to local police that he had given the girl a ride from Pine Grove to Brimley Wednesday afternoon and that she had said she was going to Strongs.

Attorney Injured

Menominee — Attorney Elmer Grimmer and Raymond W. Neumann, president and manager of the Marinette Showcase Company, were injured and the Grimmer car was badly damaged in an accident north of Daggett early this morning when they were returning from a business trip to Rhinelander, Watersmeet and Iron River.

Neither of the men is in a hospital, but Mr. Grimmer received injuries that will probably confine him to his cottage on the bay shore for some time. Grimmer sustained some broken ribs, chest injuries and cuts about the hands and face. Neumann, who was knocked unconscious by the impact received cuts about the hands and face with a tooth penetrating through his lower lip.

Catches Big Fish

Iron Mountain — Envious-eyed fishermen gathered about the window of the Quality Hardware store, 531 Stephenson avenue, today to gaze upon a walle-eyed pike weighing one ounce less than 13 pounds and caught early this morning in Lake Emily, near Spread Eagle, Wis.

The catch was made by Wenzel Just, 709 Hemlock street, Breitung, with the assistance of Harry Rost and John Kluba, also of Breitung.

Professor Honored

Iron Mountain — One of the 20 outstanding mathematicians of the leading 80 mathematicians and the 1,000 leading scientific men of the United States is the designation given Professor A. A. Albert, 26, former Iron Mountain grade school student and brother of Mrs. Joseph Cohodes, 412 East C. street.

This unusual honor is accorded by J. M. Lattele, of the Science Press, who said that he has reached his conclusions following a 30-year study of the leading scientific men of this country.

Study Pulp Rates

Iron River — A committee composed of Eugene Carey, Henry J. Veeser and H. H. Frailing was appointed at a meeting of the Lions' club yesterday to communicate with the Chicago Tribune regarding the purchase here of pulpwood, as suggested by R. C. Mahon, chairman of the county board of supervisors.

Mahon appeared before the Lions and discussed correspondence he has had with the Tribune and a mill in Canada.

The committee will make a study of transportation facilities and costs as the Tribune wants information on the cost of shipping pulpwood from this district to either Escanaba or Menominee. The committee will report some time next week.

LOCAL BUGLERS WIN 3RD PRIZE

Escanaba Is Favored for Award of 1932 Legion Meet

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 25 (Special)—The Escanaba drum and bugle corps won third place in competition at Brady park this morning with 885 points. Calumet won first place with 950 points, and Marquette, second, 890 points. The Escanaba corps formed part of the escort for Governor Brucker as he arrived in the city today.

Selection of the 1933 convention city is scheduled for Sunday morning at the closing session with Escanaba conceded a good chance for winning over Bessemer.

A large Escanaba delegation is playing an important part in convention activities. Emmet Meehan and T. F. Kessler are mentioned as candidates for upper peninsula commander to succeed James Byrne of Sault Ste. Marie, at the election Sunday.

Real Estate to Lead Way to Better Times

Real estate will lead the way to recovery, says Herbert U. Nelson, Chicago, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He bases this belief on the highly individualistic quality of real estate holdings, due to the wideness of their ownership spread.

Four elements of the present situation, as Mr. Nelson outlines them, are:

"1. In the field of real estate the process of reorganization on a new basis has gone farther than in other fields. Real estate is owned by millions of persons. Each property stands on its own feet. The millions of owners cannot act concertedly. It is not possible to support the real estate market artificially through large credits extended by banks or by government, as has been done with wheat, railroads, public utilities and other commodities and businesses.

Reorganization Completed

"Since 1927, when the real estate market started to recede, each real estate holding has had to meet its obligations and adjust itself to conditions. On larger projects on which bonds were issued the process of reorganization in many cities is almost completed. In such cases equity holders and mortgagees have taken their losses. Moreover, where bondholders have taken over the property, they are in the position of common stockholders and from now on actual earnings will determine the value of their bonds.

"2. The debt on real estate has been decreased. Since 1927 institutional and private loans on real property have been curtailed rapidly. During the current year almost no money has been available in most communities for real estate loans. During this four-year period, necessarily, indebtedness on real estate has consistently been decreased.

Mortgage Debt Declines

"3. The mortgage debt of real estate is less than that of other commodities. The value of privately owned real estate in the country is in excess of $150,000,000,000. The total amount of the mortgage debt has been estimated at $35,000,000,000, which equals 23 per cent. The bonded debt of many of the most conservative and well established transportation and industrial enterprises today exceeds 80 per cent of their present value.

Many forms of business an investment undoubtedly must go through some process of reorganization by which their fixed debts can be scaled down before they are in a position to resume healthful and increasing activity. Real estate, having a relatively small indebtedness, is in a position to lead the way.

Demand Accumulates

"4. Accumulating demand. Since 1926 a steady recession in construction of new housing facilities has continued until at present the construction industry is operating at less than 25 per cent of its capacity. In the meantime many families are living doubled up. In the meantime, also, cities have continued to grow. Depreciation continues to wipe out each year approximately 2 per cent of our existing buildings. As the readjustment continues and as families put themselves into the situation where they can maintain themselves, it may be assumed that one of their first demands will be for decent housing.

"Figures in the possession of the National Association of Real Estate Boards indicate that the doubling-up factor has reached approximately 10 per cent. This alone would absorb practically all the vacancies now existing in our cities."

Quick Repairs Save Money For Owners

The man who owns an automobile usually has it checked over at regular intervals to be sure that everything is in perfect order. If the home owner will follow the same procedure and have his house gone over by an experienced contractor at least once a year he will be able to save money for he can take care of needed repairs quickly and effectively.

CAPT. LARSON TO COME HERE

Will Direct Salvation Army Work; Andersons Leave Monday

Captain and Mrs. Oscar Anderson, who have been in charge of the Escanaba corps of the Salvation Army for the last two years, will leave Monday for Des Moines, Iowa, where they will assume their new duties in the religious service branch of the organization.

They will be succeeded here by Captain Juul Larson of Red Oak, Iowa, who will arrive about Wednesday.

By odd coincidence, this is the fourth time that Captain Larson has followed Captain Anderson in the transfers that have been made within the last eight years. The former succeeded the latter twice at Red Oak, once in Duluth, and now in Escanaba.

During the period that Captain and Mrs. Anderson have been in charge of Salvation Army work here, considerable growth in the organization's activity has been noted.

In the field of social service, the Salvation Army has carried a broad program of unemployment and indigent relief, distributing food, clothing and other forms of relief to many poor families and also conducting the lunch room for the transient unemployed.

In the religious branch of the work, there has been an increase of 10 senior and 38 junior soldiers; the Sunday school membership has grown from 20 to about 65. The Ladies' Aid society, known as the Home League, was established in November, 1930, and about fifty women attend each meeting.

Legionnaires Go To Soo Convention

Newberry, June 25 — Fifty members of the Hugh Allan McInnis Post American Legion with Auxiliary members, led by Commander Fred Keune and the McMillan township band left here this morning to attend the 11th American Legion reunion being held this week-end at Sault Ste. Marie. The local delegation plans to stay over Sunday.

Thursday night and Friday this village was visited by hundreds of Legion members who stopped off here for a meal or over night. They came from all parts of the peninsula and were on their way to the convention city. On Friday night several of the restaurants were crowded with them.

DEMANDED JURY TRIAL

Pleading not guilty and demanding a jury trial Edward Goff charged with having illegal beaver skins in his possession appeared before Justice Fred W. Becks on Saturday morning at ten o'clock. Because of the demand for a jury the case was put off until the afternoon. The fur was found on June 12 when conservation officials, armed with a search warrant, visited the Goff homestead in the northern part of Luce county. The complaint was signed by Leo Marlett, local conservation officer.

SERVICES SUCCESSFUL

The first week of special services conducted by Rev. and Mrs. McCombe in the Methodist Episcopal church, ended on Saturday night when the dramatization of "The Prodical Son" was done by four young men, Bruce Menzies, Fritz Aingleton, Rex Martin and Alton Turk.

On Friday afternoon the children who are students in the daily Bible classes had a picnic in the village park. On the same evening the ladies of the congregation served a dinner to the men, 34 attending. More than a hundred children are attending the daily study, which is divided into four periods. Mrs. McCombe has charge of this work and is assisted by seven teachers from among the local church workers. On Monday evening these classes will put on a demonstration of the work they have been doing.

Each evening a young people's forum is conducted from 7 until 7:45. At the first meeting questions of importance to the young people, dealing with their special problems, were handed in. Each night one of these problems are discussed. The average attendance at these meetings is 35.

Rev. and Mrs. McCombe will remain in Newberry all of the next week and the meetings, classes and forum will continue until July 3.

CHECK SHOWS MANY GARDENS

98 Per Cent of Gladstone Families Raising Vegetables

Approximately 98 per cent of the families of Gladstone have planted gardens this year and will supply themselves with a large proportion of their vegetable requirements according to a survey recently completed by a local business concern. The survey is not sufficiently detailed to determine the kind of vegetables that are grown nor the acreage that is planted, being merely a check as to wether or not any garden has been planted.

The large extent to which gardening has been undertaken by the people of Gladstone is due to the activity of the Legion and the Ford interests in providing garden plots for the unemployed. On the Ford farm alone more than 200 families have planted gardens and within the city every available parcel of ground has been plowed and planted.

Lack of moisture has been a handicap to the gardeners but recent rains have given assurance that the garden crops will mature. At the Ford farm the gardens are progressing under careful cultivation and sufficient vegetables will be produced to meet all needs of the families who have taken advantage of the Ford company's offer of free use of the land. During the dry spell many of those who had planted gardens hauled water from the Escanaba river, upon the banks of which the land lies, to provide needed moisture.

The Legion plots, for the most part, are within the limits of the city where water from the hydrants has been used to keep the ground moist.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed Oathoudt spent Wednesday in Marinette.

Equipped with the spirit of adventure and $10.00 in cash, two Gladstone youths set out yesterday on a search for fame and fortune with their proposed destination "somewhere in South America." They expect to hitch-hike their way to a port on the Gulf of Mexico, where they hope to find an opportunity to ship as laborers on a freighter bound for the southern continent.

The boys who set out on this trip are George Pettit and Ray Weingartner, the latter being a member of the graduating class of the Gladstone schools this year. It is the plan of the boys to stop at Chicago with relatives for a short time before continuing their journey.

OBITUARY

WALTER DITTRICH

The body of Walter Dittrich was laid to rest in Fernwood cemetery yesterday afternoon following services at the Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Dittrich died Thursday at noon after an illness of three weeks.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. W. Colenso, pastor of the church, and was attended by members of the I. O. O. F. lodge in a body. Lodge officials had charge of the interment ceremonies.

Mr. Dittrich was 64 years of age at the time of his death. He was unmarried and had but one living relative, a brother, John, at Berkeley, Calif.

Return from Trip On Big Two Heart

Postmaster F. A. Miller, S. W. Gordon, Walter Brunette, Carl Hillman and Al Gillis returned Thursday night from a trout fishing expedition on the Big Two Heart River. The men report an ideal trip, although a hard one. Taking two boats the party went to the headwaters of the river, near McMillan, and floated downstream for thirty miles. Two days were required for the trip.

The weather and conditions were not ideal for fishing, members of the party report, but nevertheless they got lots of trout. The river is one of the best in the upper peninsula, they state, and with good weather no limit would be placed on the trout that could be taken.

Lots of deer were seen along the stream and near the source beaver dams were plentiful. No signs of moose were found.

The party left the stream 28 miles north of Newberry.

Ed Hart is leaving today for Sault Ste. Marie where he will spend several days.

Box 13, Gladstone's most troublesome fire alarm box, was sounded at 1:20 yesterday morning, and as usual, the alarm was false. Games This Week

Monday—Nortons vs. Cleaners, Eastside; Lauermans vs. Sinclair Oils, Westside.

Tuesday—Fords vs. Central Markets, Eastside; Schusters vs. Inlands, Westside.

Wednesday—Nortons vs. Sinclair Oils, Eastside; Lauermans vs. Central Markets, Westside.

Thursday—Fords vs. Inlands, Eastside; Schusters vs. Cleaners, Westside.

The deadlock for first place between the Central Markets and Fords was broken last week when the Sinclair Oils won a thrilling game from the flivvers while the Central Markets increased their string of victories to ten. The Markets are now launched in the van with a full game to spare.

Undefeated teams during the week were the Lauerman Specials, Sinclair Oils, and Markets. Lauermans took in two easy wins over the cellar champs, the Inlands and Cleaners, while the Oils showed a complete reversal of form by taking three hard fought games from Schusters and the Fords. The Markets won from Nortons and Schusters.

Neither the Cleaners nor Inlands could hang up victory number two, while Schusters had a disastrous week by dropping two contests. Fords and Nortons split even.

Four teams are quite evenly bunched in the race with only two games separating the quartet. The Oils in third place, Nortons and Lauermans tied for fourth, and Schusters in fifth are still in the midst of the pennant fight as the first half of the season comes to a close this week.

This week Creighton's Fords will get an opportunity to climb back into a tie when they play the Markets on the eastside diamond Tuesday evening. The game should be hotly contested as both teams are evenly matched. Plenty of other good games are carded for the week and should furnish diamond ball fans with considerable entertainment.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 25 (AP)—With incentive for fresh buying lacking, the market sagged dully today, but showed strong resistance when previous low prices of the bear market were threatened.

Transactions reached the meagre total of 310,496 shares, recognized as a dull Saturday as far back as 1924. Absence of buying orders, rather than pressing offerings of stocks for sale, caused two distinct sinking spells during the abbreviated day, but in each case the market soon hardened. Prices at the close were little changed, most leading stocks confining gains or losses to fractions. The composite average of 90 leading stocks showed a net loss of only one-tenth of a point.

In these periodic sinking spells, American Can, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel and a scatering of other stocks touched new low prices. But principal price changes at the day's end showed losses of fractions to about a point by American Can, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B," New York Central, Union Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio. Net gains of about equal proportion were recorded by Bethlehem Steel, Borden, J. I. Case, Liggett & Myers "B," National Dairy and Western Union. After yielding 5¼ points, Auburn, which was one of the weaker spots, recovered about half its loss.

The feeling that next week would be a rather crucial period, what with congress still to take final action on the huge relief projects, the Democratic party to announce its economic program, probable developments at Lausanne, and a number of important dividend meetings, was sufficient to keep traders on the sidelines.

The most encouraging aspect of the market was the halt in its decline before the averages penetrated the bear market low of June 1. Ending the day at 36.4, the composite of 90 representative issues was still 1.4 points above the low.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, June 25—Rallying power showed itself in the grain markets today after wheat had thumped down to equal with the season's low price record.

Throughout the day, wheat traders took their cue largely from the action of securities, weakness at first being succeeded by renewal of strength. Word that the senate had made a sharp cut in operating funds of the farm board had a late stimulating effect, and so too did reports of harvest delays southwest on account of persistent wet weather.

Wheat closed firm at the day's high point, 1¼ to 1½ above yesterday's finish, corn 3-8 to 3-4 up, oats 1-8 to 3-8 advanced and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 20 cents.

Corn, Oats and rye rose with wheat after an early dip. Corn was aided by the advancing trend both in hog and cattle prices. Rural selling of corn continued meager and receipts also were light.

Provisions were stronger with hog values.

New York, June 25 (AP)—The bond market followed a desultory course today and, after a number of ups and downs, concluded the day's proceedings in about the same position it occupied at yesterday's close.

Trading was dull, sales totaling but $4,490,000, par value. The average for 60 corporate securities was off but one-tenth of a point.

Some dealers and financial observers, taking into consideration the various political and economic problems that are still waiting for solution, were of the opinion that the present quiet and relatively narrow movement of the market is more encouraging than otherwise.

Although the industrial averages showed some slight improvement today, the utilities eased moderately and the rails were inclined to heaviness. Ontario Power Service 5½s staged a somewhat spectacular spurt, gaining 14 points.

Curb Has Dullest Session In Years

New York, June 25 (AP)—The curb market today experienced its dullest day in years, with transactions totaling 30,000 shares, against 50,000 last Saturday.

A handful of less active stocks, for which a thin market usually exists, swung rather widely. Buckeye Pipe was off 5¾ points to a new low of 18 while Empire District Electric Co. shot up 5 3-8 points to 20 7-8. Prices generally, however, held to a narrow groove, and maintained a fairly steady tone.

Of more than 2,000 stocks listed on the curb, only 98 appeared in the day's trading.

Reduction of dividends was announced by some of the Insull companies, executive committees of Commonwealth Edison recommending a cut from $8 annually to $5 and of Public Service of northern Illinois from $8 to $3, little reflection was shown marketwise. Commonwealth Edison sold off 1 point to 52½. The Northern Illinois company's stock was inactive.

Arctic-Bound to Honor Peary

Cape York, on the bleak northwest coast of Greenland, 600 miles north of the Arctic Circle, is the goal of the schooner Effie M. Morrissey, which sailed from New York with Seaman sons to erect a 60-foot memorial there to Admiral Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole. The schooner as it lifted anchor is pictured here. Aboard was Mrs. Marie Ah-ni-ghi-to Stafford, of Washington (inset), daughter of Admiral Peary, with her two sons, Peary, 14, and Edward, 12. Captain Bob Bartlett, skipper when the explorer discovered the pole, commands the expedition.

TELLS OF SEAL HUNTING TRIP

Spends Seven Weeks Among Ice Fields off Labrador

Dr. A. O. Abraham, husband of a former Gladstone girl, Wilma Mathison, who spent seven weeks aboard a sealing vessel in the Newfoundland and Labrador ice fields, has written an interesting account of his experiences in a letter to relatives here. Dr. Abrahams is a member of the staff of the Notre Dame Bay Memorial hospital at Twillingate, Newfoundland, and shipped on the "Imogene," sealing vessel, as ship's doctor.

Six ships were in the fleet of which the "Imogene" was a part. Four of the vessels were veterans, one, the Ranger, having been to the ice fields forty-two springs. Dr. Abrahams account of his trip reads as follows:

"My vessel, the Imogene, had seen three sealing voyages. On its maiden trip to the seal fishery it brought in the highest number of seals which was 35,000 for the season. The Imogene is the only boat built especially for the ice fields having a long curved bow which enables it to ride upon the surface of the ice and break through.

"We sailed from the "Narrows" of St. John's harbor on March 5th although we were not allowed by law to take seals until March 14th, giving us ample time to locate the "main patch of seals." Our crew consisted of 210 men. We anchored and put ashore eleven stowaways who ranged from nine to fifty years of age.

"On the fourteenth of March ("killing day") we took our first "whitecoat." A whitecoat is a young seal and the most valuable catch. By tradition and for good luck the first whitecoat must be brought aboard alive, its short tail cut off and the captain and his officers must "wet the tail" with a good stiff drink of rum.

"Only the pelts and fat on the seals are used—the carcass being discarded. The fat is about three to four inches thick and is mainly used in soap manufacturing. The pelts are used in leather industries as the seals of this variety are really hair seals. Only the still born seals have permanent fur.

"During the first two weeks we had about 21,000 young seals aboard. The average weight of the pelts of these young seals is about forty-five pounds. The other five ships of the sealing fleet were much less fortunate. Two had to be towed back to St. John's; one because of a broken propellor shaft, and the other due to broken propellor blades. This is not unusual considering the ice is six to ten feet thick.

"We cruised up off the coast of Labrador but had poor luck and made little progress on account of the very heavy ice.

"About the first week of April all the young seals begin to lose their pure white coats and turn grey as they take to the water. They are killed by a blow on the head and quickly "sculped," i. e. stripped of fat and skin in one piece. A good sealer can sculp a young seal in sixty seconds.

"The old seals are less valuable but are considerably larger. The average weight for skin and fat is five hundred pounds. The vicious old dog seals or males are shot while the docile female seals are "batted" or killed by blows over the head.

"A good day's kill under most favorable conditions is 15,000 to 20,000 young seals. However, ice conditions must be perfect and seals must be vary thickly grouped. Our best day's kill numbered about 7000.

"The part of the seal most commonly used for food is the "flippers" which corresponds to the front legs of any four-legged animal. Although the brain, kidneys and liver taste very much like those of a calf, the flippers have a wild game-like taste.

"The sealers are a brave but superstitious group of men. They often leave the ship at daybreak and remain out of sight of the ship most of the day—going on the ice pans or floes as far as 12 miles from their ship—at dusk they light flare torches and their boat picks them up with their day's catch.

"The living quarters of the sealers are in the "hold of the ship" where they sleep in four deck beds. Each man furnishes his own bedding which consists of a straw filled bag and blankets. Before the "Sealing Act" living conditions of the sealing vessels were deplorable. The food consisted mainly of hard biscuit, salt pork and molasses. Since the "Sealing Act," which is a Newfoundland law requiring a government official to be aboard every vessel which sails to the seal fishery, the food is much better. Now tea and fresh meat and soft bread are required to be served to the men.

"Each sealer receives a share of the catch. Seventy to one hundred dollars for the sealing season is considered an average share. This year many of the men did not receive more than ten or twelve dollars.

"After being out seven weeks we decided to "bear up" or go home and found after travelling 7,000 miles we had over 31,000 seals aboard.

"The record catch for one ship is 49,000 made several years ago on the Florizel. But since the Imogene once more brought in the highest number of seals for the season we felt satisfied."

THEATRES

Whooping it up in good old Wild West fashion to the tune of Gershwin melodies, RKO-Radio Pictures' all-star comedy "Girl Crazy" is now playing at the Rialto Theatre.

The picture, which is an animated and augmented screen reproduction of the successful stage comedy, stars the two laugh "rioteers" of the screen, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in a roaring, tongue-in-the-cheek satire of the West.

The film tells the story of a playboy, Eddie Quillan, who is sent to supposed isolation on a ranch because he is girl crazy. However, he chases the cows and bulls off the place and substitutes a bevy of pretty girls and invites his friends.

Wheeler and Woolsey make the most of this rich field for comedy and soon turn this dude ranch into the focal point for some of the funniest comedy situations of their careers.

The picture is especially fortunate in the strength and capability of its supporting cast. Dorothy Lee, inseparable with the starring combination, is cast as a Western girl.

Royal Neighbors Convention Will Be Held Tuesday

Several officers prominent in the organization, including Mrs. Clara Raymond, Iron Mountain, district deputy, will be in attendance.

Members of various committees in charge will met Monday afternoon at 3 at the hall to decorate for the occasion.

Find Mallard Duck On Central Avenue

A black mallard duck, not more than 3 weeks old, created considerable stir yesterday morning when it was seen dodging traffic on Central avenue. After considerable difficulty it was caught by A. D. Alguire and J. P. Farley and removed from danger. Where it came from and what brought it to the business section of Gladstone is a mystery.

The duck was turned over to Herbert Cornell, who will make an effort to raise it. Mr. Cornell has two other wild ducks that were found by children some time ago.

Leagues Formed At Playgrounds

Kittenball and tennis are taking the lead among activities at the Gladstone playgrounds, under the direction of Russell Skellenger. Two kittenball and two tennis leagues have been formed and a large number of the youth of the city are participating. In the tennis league 25 have signed up and in the kittenball leagues more than 100 boys will take part.

A girls' tennis league is also being organized and plans for a tournament are being made.

Article By Local Writer To Appear In Sports Journal

An article on the art of trout fly tieing from the pen of Herbert Van Horn, Gladstone, is to appear in an early issue of the Northern Sportsmen, it was announced yesterday. Mr. Van Horn is one of the pioneers among fly makers in Gladstone and has achieved considerable commendation for the excellent quality of his flies. He has the ability to make them true to living specimens and has sufficient knowledge concerning trout to choose the patterns which attract.

Besides making flies, Van Horn uses them effectively and is rated among the best dry fly fishermen in this section. During the present season, when trout have been hard to get, Varn Horn has been consistently getting the limit.

His favorite stream is the Days river, where he has caught a large number of rainbow and speckled trout that exceeded a pound in weight.

ESCANABA WILL PLAY MUNISING

West End and Wells to Meet in First Game At 1:15 O'clock

Two good baseball games at one moderate admission price are offered to Escanaba fans today at the state fairgrounds diamond. The Wells and West End will play the first game at 1:15 and the Escanaba and Munising city teams will meet in the other at 3 o'clock.

The Wells and West Enders have met once before this season with Wells taking the decision. The West End hopes to even the count today at the fairgrounds. Oseen is the likely starting pitcher for West End and Miller for Wells.

The feature game brings together Ernie Bourke's Escanaba city club with a lineup sprinkled with veterans of years ago and the Munising club which also boasts a lineup comprising some of the old baseball stars of the peninsula.

Manager Bourke said last night that Van Effen would probably get the nod as his starting hurler although Bovin, the versatile athlete, will be on hand to take over the duties if he is needed.

Bovin's versatility has made him one of the outstanding players on the local roster. He is a capable pitcher, excellent catcher and can play practically any other position on the team if needed. He has performed in the outfield most of the year for Escanaba. In the event that Van Effen takes the mound today, Bovin will hold down one of the outfield posts again.

The rest of the Escanaba lineup will probably be: Whitey Moberg behind the plate, Boyle at first, Andrews at second, Gregory shortstop, Pete Derouin at third, Gafner, Moreau and Bovin, outfielders, with Cloutier, Jake Bink, Bill Schram and Demars ready for relief duty.

Included in the Munising roster are such old timers as Charley Burns whose work with the hickory has stamped him as one of the most dangerous hitters in peninsula baseball. Boyak, Carey, Chase, Karbon and several college men. One of the latter is Bill Munson, formerly of University of Wisconsin.

Iron Mountain Motorcycle Club To Appear Here

The Iron Mountain Motorcycle club, which under the direction of E. C. Anderson has promoted fancy, trick and stunt riding, have developed a new motorcycle polo stunt and a bucking motorcycle act, which will be presented at the celebration at the U. P. State Fairgrounds here July 3 and 4.

The boys will compete against noted riders from Minneapolis. An additional feature of the motorcycle races will be the homecoming of Johnny Seymour, hero of many racing events in the upper peninsula fifteen years ago. Since leaving Escanaba, he has raced against the leading cyclists in all parts of the world. He has the world record for straightaway racing.

Braves Grab Odd Game With Dodgers

Boston, June 25 (AP)—The Braves overcame Brooklyn's 5-2 lead in the late innings today and won the odd game of the series 6 to 5.

Wally Berger was the big figure in the late scoring. In the eighth he followed Worthington's single with a two base hit and then scored the tying run on Randy Moore's pinch single. He also drove in the winning run in the ninth with a single after Red Worthington had hit his 32nd double of the season.

Brooklyn	103 001 000	5	10	3
Boston	110 000 121	6	11	1

Mungo, Quinn and Lopez; Beets and Spohrer.

THREE YANKEES IN FINAL EIGHT

Vines, Wood and Shields Still in Wimbledon Tennis Race

BY FRANK H. KING
(Ass'd Press Sports Writer)

Wimbledon, Eng., June 25 (AP)—Three American youngsters, Ellsworth Vines, Sidney B. Wood and lanky Frank Shields, paced the field into quarter-finals of the men's singles today while Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, already in the same bracket of the women's play, contented themselves with mixed doubles victories to close the first week of the annual Wimbledon tennis championships.

A crowd of 24,000 with the king and queen in the royal box, broke all previous records for attendance in the big stadium. A pair of Englishmen, Fred Perry and Bunny Austin, the Japanese Jiro Satoh, Jack Crawford of Australia and a Spaniard, Ernest Maier, reaching the final eight with the Americans.

Wood, the defending champion, was forced to eliminate his fellow countryman, Gregory Mangin, 6-1, 9-7, 6-3 today. Shields dropped but one set in defeating the Czechoslovakian, Roderich Menzel, in a hard driving contest, 6-3, 6-4, 10-12, 6-4.

Allison Defeated

Vines won his place yesterday by eliminating the Japanese, I. G. Aoki, but Maier caught Jean Borotra, one of the French musketeers, in an erratic mood today and belted out his victory, 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2. Perry nipped the second American casualty of the day, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2. Crawford eliminated J. S. Oliff of England in straight sets.

The experts believed that Vines and Wood of the American forces have outstanding chances to win the title.

Four American combinations moved ahead in the early rounds of the mixed doubles. Vines and Mrs. Moody paired to beat Doris Metaxa and Antoine Gentien of France, 6-3, 9-7, while Allison and Helen Jacobs downed the British team of C. H. Kingsley and Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree 2-6, 6-2, 6-2. Sarah Palfrey and Mangin turned back Hans Timmer and Miss Beizer of Holland 6-2, 6-2 as Mrs. L. A. Harper teamed with Ian G. Collins of England to advance over Menzel and Gertrude Sterry of England 6-4, 6-3.

Elizabeth Ryan, an American now living in London, teamed with Maier to eliminate Mr. and Mrs. Wheatcroft of England 6-1, 6-1.

CHICAGO ROUTS DETROIT, 10-5

White Sox in Slugging Mood, Rap Out 16 Safe Bingles

Chicago, June 25 (AP)—Sad Sam Jones, backed up by a crew of hard-hitting teammates, administered a stinging 10 to 5 defeat to the Detroit Tigers in their first game of the new series with the White Sox here today.

Allowing a total of seven hits which was overshadowed by the 16 collected by the White Sox, Jones stood off the successive efforts of Whitehill, Wyatt and Sewell. Even the four errors chalked up against the Sox didn't affect the outcome appreciably.

While the loss ended the Tigers' winning streak of six in a row, it failed to dislodge Detroit from second place, as both Philadelphia and Washington, in third and fourth, respectively, also were defeated.

The Athletics remained a few percentage points behind the Tigers, and Washington trailed them both by a half game.

Sarazen Greatest Golfer, Says Jones

Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, N. Y., June 25 (AP)—Bobby Jones today paid tribute to Gene Sarazen as the "greatest living golfer."

The retired world champion, who quit in 1930 after a "grand slam" in Great Britain and America, praised the new titleholder's last round as the "finest competitive exhibition on record."

"It was marvelous," Jones said. He was a spectator throughout.

Jones will match strokes with Sarazen in an exhibition match tomorrow at Fresh Meadow. He will pair with Tommy Armour against Sarazen and Bill Burke in an 18 hole match for the benefit of Mayor Walker's Unemployment Fund.

Kings—New and Old

Brilliant, sub-par play on the final 36 holes of the national open golf tournament, won Gene Sarazen (right) the crown, and dethroned Billy Burke (left) defending champion. Sarazen, apparently out of the picture with 150 for the first two day's play, came back yesterday to shoot a par 70 on the first 18 holes and a 66, 4 under par, on the final round for a total of 286 and the title. By the victory, Sarazen, winner of the British open, duplicated Bobby Jone's feat of winning both major open meets of the year. He and Burke are pictured as they marched together over the Fresh Meadow Country Club course, scene of the tourney, on Long Island.

LARSON STARS IN GOLF MEET

Escanaba Boy Cops Low Medal With 74 at Iron Mountain

Iron Mountain, June 25. (Special)—Grant Larson, Escanaba youth, won the individual star in the first day of the U. P. Invitational golf tournament here. Larson, only a few weeks out of St. Joseph high school from where he was graduated this month, shot a 74 in the qualifying rounds to win the low qualifying medal. His cards were 38 and 36.

Other Escanabans who qualified in the championship flight were: Donald Boyce, 86; Francis Boyle, 88; Dr. W. B. Boyce, 90; Tom Gander, 93; and Bauman.

In the first round of the medal play in the championship flight, Grant Larson eliminated Don Boyce, also of Escanaba, one up. Francis Boyce won from Frank Milliman, 3 to 2, and Bauman defeated Utecht of Menominee, 5 and 3.

TOLAN BETTERS TWO RECORDS

Wolverine Flier Bids For Place on U. S. Olympic Squad

Ann Arbor, June 25 (AP)—Two world records were bettered today by Eddie Tolan in his first bid for a place on the 1932 United States Olympic team, running in the Michigan A. A. U. meet.

The former University of Michigan negro sprinter qualified for Olympic tryout semi-finals at Chicago July 1 and 2, by stepping 100 meters in ten and three-tenths seconds, one-tenth second faster than the recognized world record of 10.4 seconds which he holds jointly with Charlie Paddock.

An hour later Tolan ran 200 meters in 20.7 seconds, which is one-tenth second faster than the record of 20.8 seconds held jointly by Roland Locke of U. S. and E. Korning of Germany.

Tolan was aided by a tail wind, which officials said would not allow his times to stand. Tolan got off to perfect starts today and easily distanced the field. In the 100-meter dash he finished 15 feet ahead of Love Snowden of Detroit who placed second. Tolan defeated Fred Schatte of Michigan Normal college by ten feet in the 200-meter dash.

Bill Zepp, Michigan Normal college freshman, evened his account with Tom Ottey, Michigan State yearling, by defeating him in the 5,000 meters run. Ottey defeated Zepp at 10,000 meters Friday. Clark Chamberlain, national cross country champion, was third. The time today was 15 mintues 21.5 seconds.

But Can He Play the Game?

Otto Probst of South Bend, Ind., has a collection of 500 books on the game of golf, which he claims is the largest library of its kind in the world.

HOLMES LOSES TO FITZHARRIS

Favorite in Local Net Tourney Defeated Yesterday

Burleson Fitzharris, former St. Joseph's high school star, sent the dope bucket rolling yesterday in the fourth annual city tennis tourney when he upset Don Holmes, court veteran and favorite to cop the singles title this year, in three hard-fought sets, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Conceded as having only an outside chance to reach the finals, Fitzharris outplayed Holmes in the last two sets to take victory. His volleys and beautiful base line slices kept Holmes on the defensive most of the time. The latter experienced difficulty in controlling his serve, usually his strongest point winner.

Because of the inclement weather, which retarded play, the finals of the tournament will not be held tomorrow as originally planned. Two doubles and four singles matches must be played yet to determine the 1932 court champions.

Fred Boddy and Frank Bourke won the plaudits of the crowd which gathered yesterday to watch tournament play. Boddy taking the match in another three set struggle 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. Both boys were at their peak and the play was marked by long rallies. Boddy will meet Fitzharris in the semi-finals of the lower bracket today or Monday.

Two other singles matches were run off, McEwen beating Garry Belanger, 6-3, 7-5; and Rouman winning from Vaughn Belanger 6-2, 6-4.

Only one doubles contest was played, Olson-Boddy administering a sound trouncing to Curran-Groesbeck 6-1, 6-0. The winners will meet Holmes-Rouman in the semi-finals of the doubles.

Parker Vanquishes Coen To Go Into Finals At Chicago

Chicago, June 25, (AP)—Two of the most promising youthful stars of tennis, Frankie Parker of Milwaukee and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, crashed into the finals of the western singles championship tournament at River Forest today while the drive for the women's crown returned the defending titleholder, Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., and Mrs. Dorothy Weisel Hack, of Los Angeles, as the final survivors.

Parker, who had entered the semi-final round with a brilliant five-set victory over the favored George Lott of Chicago, followed through today under the rays of a scorching sun to eliminate Junior Coen of Kansas City, 6-4, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2 to become a finalist. Stoefen survived a hard struggle by defeating Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., 6-4, 7-9, 6-2, 0-6, 6-2.

ATHLETICS BOW TO GOMEZ, 7-4

New York 8½ Games in Front of Philadelphia Due to Victory

New York, June 25 (AP)—Lefty Vernon Gomez of the Yankees, leading pitcher of the American league, caught up with Lefty Grove in the consecutive victory lists today as he turned back the Philadelphia Athletics by a 7 to 4 count for his eleventh straight victory.

The triumph was the fifth Gomez has scored over the A's and increased New York's margin over the 1931 champions to 8½ games.

The Spanish southpaw gave only seven hits and fanned eight but might have escaped with less trouble if he had not been wild. In the fourth inning he gave two passes just before Jimmie Foxx stepped into a fast one and hit his 29th home run of the season. Two singles and a force out gave the A's their other run.

Rock, Mich., June 25 (Special)—With the championship of the first half of the rural kittenball league firmly established by the Humdingers, interest in the race turned to the fight for third place position. Only one game remains on the first half schedule.

The third place fight is a cat and dog fight, the three teams tied for that position being the Hounds, Hotdogs and Kittys. Each team has won six and lost seven games. A team composed of West Rock players has taken up the schedule of the Kittys, who dropped out of the league.

The Humdingers kept up their winning streak by defeating the Kittys, 14-0, in the first shutout of the league season, and by defeating the Hotdogs, despite the fact that the champs had but nine players.

Tuesday evening the Offnons, Hounds and Poodles defeated the Junebugs, Hotdogs and Cats, respectively, while on Thursday the Kittys, Offnons and Cats were victorious over the Hounds, Poodles and Junebugs.

Final games of the first half on Tuesday will be: Junebugs at Hotdogs; Humdingers at Offnons; Kittys at Poodles, and Cats at Hounds.

Cattle Poisoning Puzzles Officials

An epidemic of cattle poisoning in Delta county has perplexed the county sheriff department and veterinarians.

Yesterday, Lewis Johnson, Escanaba township farmer, reported the second death of his cattle stock in two weeks and four other cows are seriously sick, all have been poisoned but veterinarians have been unable to determine what kind of poison has caused the trouble.

Other cattle deaths due to poisoning reported to the sheriff's department were from Isaac Hagman, also of Escanaba township, who lost two cows. Another is sick. A horse owned by Peterson of Soo Hill, also has been poisoned.

Farmers are asked to notify the sheriff's department if any more cattle become sick by poisoning. They are urged, also, to move the cattle to another pasture in such cases.

Roy Gathergood, mayor of Monroeville, Ohio, is said to be the heaviest mayor in the United States. He weighs 325 pounds.

Bausch Will Lead U. S. In Decathlon

Dyche Stadium, Evanston, Ill., June 25 (AP)—Three all around track and field stars from the same collegiate neighborhood headed by James A. Bausch, the "Jarring Jim" of Kansas football fame, will represent the United States in the decathlon of the tend Olympiad. Charles and Coffman are the other two athletes.

CONVENTION IN CHICAGO WILL BEGIN MONDAY

rechecking every vote.

Sen. Walsh Arrives

Seeking to apply to the rule dispute any advantage they may gain from the split-up of the big Illinois melon, the Roosevelt men sent scouts scurrying everywhere, raising the band-wagon call.

They met other scouts, led by Frank Hague of New Jersey, floor manager for Alfred E. Smith, counselling the opposition ranks to stand fast.

One of the important arrivals today was Senator Walsh of Montana, wanted by Governor Roosevelt as permanent chairman instead of Jouett Shouse, executive director for the national committee. He was non-committal when he got in on whether he favored changing the two thirds rule now, although saying he was opposed to it in principle. But after a talk with James Farley, Roosevelt's campaign manager, he said "any time" would be a good one to effect the change.

In the midst of the assertions and challenges, plans and counter-moves, speculation is heard as to who has the best chance of being a compromise nominee if a deadlock comes. Baker and Governor Ritchie of Maryland get more mention in the delegate chit chat than anyone else.

Caucuses Today

This afternoon the resolutions committee reached the prohibition question, taking testimony from both sides as it had through the morning from organized labor spokesmen and advocates of other planks.

The general expectation is that the committee will approve submission of a repeal amendment to the states, with the probability that wet extremists will seek a showdown on committing the party to favor repeal.

Meanwhile, arrangements were perfected for numbers of state caucuses tomorrow—on the outcome of which hinges the future of the convention proper.

Even before the start Monday, as a result of these caucuses, it may be possible to forecast what the convention will decide on the chairmanship and the two-thirds.

California came today in parade style, with William Gibbs Mc Adoo waving to watchers as he marched at the head of the delegation from the station to the Congress hotel behind an American Legion hand. Garner pennants were raised high. The Bear flag of the state, waved so frequently in the Republican convention by Governor Rolph, had its place here alongside the Stars and Stripes.

An advance notice of another Garner demonstration to come, with the arrival of the Texas delegation.

Joseph Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson and now a Washington lawyer, added his support today to the effort to keep the two-thirds rule.

Justification for tossing the rule aside, and a reply to arguments that it should be put off until next convention, was recorded in a statement by Farley, in which he said in part: "Each convention is a rule unto itself and makes its own rules.

"The will not only of a majority but a majority so large as to be almost two thirds ,so long as this antiquated rule is adhered, to may be set aside by a wilful and obstructionist minority."

Former Resident Stricken In West

Death of Miss Lillian Nugent, formerly of this city, in Los Angeles, occurred Friday according to word received here yesterday by Mrs. A. T. Hoffman, 317 Ogden avenue. Two other sisters, Mrs. Hugh Cameron of Ralph and Mrs. Frank Cochems of Solada, Colo. Mrs. Hoffman will leave Monday for the west to visit with the Cochems and possibly attend the funeral rites.

DEMO GROUP ON PLATFORM GETS TO WORK for the wets, Pierre S. Dupont, of Delaware, chairman of the United Repeal Council, urged the Democrats to take a clear-cut stand for repeal submission "without any ifs, ands, and but about it."

William H. Stayton, speaking for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, advocated return of control of the liquor traffic to the states.

Dr. Edwin G. Dinwiddie, secretary of the Prohibition Board of Strategy, took Stayton to task for arguing the federal government had usurped the power of the states on prohibition.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, urged a plank pledging Democratic members of both houses to propose to state conventions an amendment for repeal.

Walter L. Gregory, of Chicago, representing the American Hotel Owners Association, asked for a repeal plank, saying hotel operators had seen their banquet and restaurant business pass to "speakeasies or clubs."

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said "if prohibition is repealed it should be done by orderly constitutional processes."

As the sub-committee went to work on the tentative platform, it became known that sharp issue would be taken with Republican policies on the tariff and other economic issues.
